Malfunction in Thor Booster Forces Missile Destruction

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States failed Monday night for the fourth time in five tries to detonate a nuclear device at high-altitude above Johnston Island—and again a missile was to blame.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the failure was due to a malfunction in the Thor booster carrying the sub-megaton device to its firing altitude of 30 to 40 miles. The range safety officer deliberately destroyed the missile eight minutes after it was launched.

Debris from the rocket and nuclear warhead fell harmlessly into the ocean within a pre-designated safety zone away from Johnston and adjacent Sand Island, the AEC said. An announcement said there was no nuclear detonation and no danger to persons on the islands.

Tests Continue

An AEC spokesman said the tests would be rescheduled. He said other missiles would be used to launch two other devices in other tests.

One test will use a Nike-Hercules rocket and the other a specially constructed booster with the booster from a surface-to-surface Sergeant rocket. Use of these missiles would indicate the two shots will be fired at relatively low altitudes because neither has

Guerrillas Shoot Down 2 Planes In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist guerrillas shot down a U.S. spotter plane and a U.S. Air Force fighter in South Viet Nam's central highlands Monday and today.

Three Americans aboard the spotter plane were killed.

The pilot of the T28 fighter rode his plane down and was thrown out when it hit and exploded. He was injured only slightly.

The identities of the Americans were not announced.

An earlier report said the fighter plane belonged to the Vietnamese air force, but later it was learned it was American and that the U.S. Air Force has one squadron of single-engine T28s in Viet Nam.

This was the first indication that U.S. combat planes were in action against the Communist Viet Cong.

In the past, U.S. Air Force pilots have flown combat missions in Vietnamese air force planes in air strikes against the guerrillas.

Mass Welcome in Cuba for Ben Bella

Spokesman Denies Algerian Will Try to be Mediator

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro re-leader will try to mediate between the United States and Cuba during his Havana visit.

Instructions to Citizens

Cuban students, workers and others were told to line the route between Havana's airport and the capital. The Communist newspaper Hoy published detailed instructions to citizens of various quarters of greater Havana on where to take positions along the highway.

Billboards greeting Ben Bella in Spanish and Arabic were erected along the four-lane highway. They carried large likenesses of Ben Bella and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, plus the flags of the two nations.

There was no official indication of the purpose of Ben Bella's visit beyond the fact that the Algerian nationalists have been close to the Cubans since the Castro government recognized their provisional regime in 1960.

During his visit to the United Nations earlier this month, Ben Bella had a 40-minute meeting with Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, the first statesman he called on after his arrival in New York.

Progress Toward Congo Unity Seen After Cease-Fire

National and Katanga Forces Agree to Suspend Hostilities

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The signing of a cease-fire between Congolese national army and Katanga gendarmerie was hailed at the United Nations today as an encouraging sign of progress toward unification of the Congo.

Prospects of a cease-fire led U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to tell President Kennedy on Sunday that there was "some hope of a solution to the problem in the Congo."

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation expressed gratification over the cease-fire, but noted that there is still a long way to go before actual unity is achieved.

A U.N. spokesman took a similar view. He expressed hope that the cease-fire would be implemented, permitting both sides to continue the negotiations on putting into effect Acting Secretary-General U. Thant's plan for reuniting secessionist Katanga.

Unity Big Issue

Diplomats here agreed tension would be eased by a cease-fire and Katanga President Moise Tshombe's reported offer to send the head of his armed forces to Leopoldville to pledge allegiance to the central government. But they cautioned that such actions would by no means settle the over-all issue of Congo unity.

These African diplomats recall that Tshombe has signed pledges before that he recognizes Katanga as just another Congo province. But they said he has given little indication of abiding by them.

Reports from Elisabethville said that, even while he negotiated with the Leopoldville government, Tshombe has been building up his Decision on Barnett Expected This Week

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A federal appeals court may rule later this week on the Justice Department's request that it fine Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett $100,000 for his actions in the James H. Meredith case.

Attaches of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said it was unlikely any decision would come before Wednesday. Two panels of the court are hearing cases this week in Atlanta and Montgomery, Ala.

They will receive copies of briefs filed Monday by the Justice Department and the state of Mississippi. The state claimed the appeals court no longer had jurisdiction in the case.

President Gets Report on Aid For Retarded

Panel Outlines Plan for Broad Attack on Affliction

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy receives a battle plan today for launching a broad attack on mental retardation, which has struck three out of 100 Americans.

The report was drafted by a presidential panel of experts.

The panel, in its report made public Monday night, drafted 99 recommendations for a program which would emphasize community action and call for volunteers to help the retarded through a domestic peace corps.

Kennedy established the blue-ribbon panel a year ago, calling mental retardation a national problem that needed a national solution.

The President's 43-year-old sister Rosemary is mentally retarded and has spent the last 20 years in a Catholic institution that specializes in the care of such cases.

Broad Attack Needed

The panel, headed by Dr. Leon and Mayo of New York, noted in its 281-page report Monday that the causes of mental retardation are complex and varied, and a broad attack is necessary to prevent and treat them.

With statistics it sketched the scope of the problem:

About 126,000 children born each year are destined to become mentally retarded.

Of the 5.4 million Americans who are afflicted, 400,000 are so severely retarded they need constant care and supervision. These cases usually are associated with organic defects and strike at all economic levels.

However, many of the recommendations focused on the fact that mild retardation, which accounts for 90 per cent of the cases, has its heaviest concentration among children of parents with poor education and low incomes.

These are described as the "book homes" where no encouragement is or can be given to learning.

"Mental retardation tends to be

Former President Angered By Criticism of Program As He Headed Government

BOSTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sharply criticized President Kennedy Monday night for conducting what he termed "a dreary foreign policy... too sad to talk about."

Eisenhower responded to Kennedy's recent criticisms of Republican foreign policy in the 1950's with a slashing attack of his own.

The former Republican president treated a partisan throng gathered at Commonwealth Armory for a $100-a-plate GOP dinner to his strongest attack to date on the Democratic administration's foreign policy.

Eisenhower is scheduled to continue his New England campaign, swinging in support of local GOP candidates today.

The former president displayed his famous grin and his equally famous "I was there" Monday night in Boston.

Reply to Attack

Eisenhower appeared visibly angry when he told some 5,000 Republican party faithful of recent criticism of his foreign policy.

"Personally I have been careful in all my speeches to keep current foreign policy out of partisan debate. But when a charge is made for purely political purposes—a charge that indeed should be justly questioned—the president is obliged to respond."

He said Kennedy was saying "that years of Republican administration have been a failure."

He called it "a strange statement" when his successor said that

White House Meeting

Schirra and President Discuss Space Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. talked over details of his six-orbit ride around the earth with President Kennedy today. The Schirra family watched with beaming smiles.

The conference in the President's White House office had a homey touch, with family small-talk as well as discussions of Schirra's space achievements.

The four Schirras sat on a white sofa, the President in his rocking chair.

Schirra's son, Walter III, who is 12, left with the President's tieclip as a gift, and his sister had a new chain bracelet.

Suzanne, 5, looked shyly at the President and said, "I know who you are."

At one point Kennedy asked Suzanne if she had seen the ponies kept at the White House for the Kennedy children. She shook her head no, and the President took her and the family out to see the ponies.

Returning to Texas

Later, talking to newsmen, Schirra said he expected to return to Houston, Tex., tonight and fly to Cape Canaveral, Fla., Wednesday. There he will complete a written report on his nine-hour space flight and turn his attention to design problems of the new two-man spacecraft, Gemini.

Asked if he needed a vacation, Schirra said, "I don't think I need any now. I had mine while I was flying."

Schirra's wife watched quietly while her husband talked with the President. The two red-haired children beamed with pride and excitement.

The President asked Schirra's son where he went to school, and was obviously taken with the charms of little Suzanne. He asked her if she watched her father's space flight and she nodded yes. He asked her age and she showed him five fingers of her left hand.

The brief White House visit followed a wild confetti-strewn welcome Monday in Schirra's native New Jersey.

Caroline and Pals Drown Out Salute

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has learned to his dismay that cannons on the White House lawn can drown out everything but daughter Caroline and her friends.

He learned this as he stood tight-lipped and at attention while cannons on the south lawn boomed a welcome for Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria.

During the ceremonies, every boom drew a shrill-voiced "Bang" from the President's daughter and her friends in their kindergarten on the second floor of the White House. Every command to the military color guard drew a mimicking order from the happy children upstairs.

Neither Kennedy nor Ben Bella cracked a smile or furrowed a brow at the high-pitched, giggling chorus. But most newsmen, diplomats, and State Department officials did not suppress their smiles.

This was the first time President Kennedy has welcomed a foreign chief of state on the White House lawn with a 21-gun salute. The cannon usually boom their welcome at the airport.

For Caroline, who will be 5 next month, and her classmates, it clearly was an unusual day that deserved an unusual demonstration. They provided it.

Raiders Draw Displeasure In Washington

'Alpha 66' May Be Trying to Shape U. S. Policy

Chicago Daily News Service — Administration officials have indicated displeasure with the Cuban exiles raiding Castro ships and ports, but plan no action to discourage them at this time.

These officials voice resentment that the free-wheeling refugees, operating under the name Alpha 66, appear to be trying to make U.S. policy toward Cuba.

Their exploits in the Caribbean waters against the Communist regime in Cuba, these officials believe, conceivably could lead to a war for which there is no immediate necessity, and hamper other measures designed to make it more and more costly for the Soviets to prop up Castro.

There are others in the government who disagree with this evaluation of the exile raiders, arguing that every harassment of Castro's operation is an encouragement to such underground forces as exist in Cuba.

Though they feel the effects of the raids are probably exaggerated, the officials favoring the guerrillas maintain that anything done to embarrass or belittle Castro's defense is helpful.

It is reported here that the Cuban people are showing vast discontent with the Castro government, that small scale sabotage and guerrilla actions take place, that some navy personnel have been shot. But it is emphasized, there is no evidence of widespread rebellion in the making. An early overthrow of Castro is deemed unlikely.

Officials disclose that Russia has now sent in an estimated 5,000 technicians, the number required to train the Cubans in the use of military equipment supplied by the Soviets, which includes anti-aircraft missiles, coastal defense missiles, Mig jet aircraft and motor torpedo boats.

But none of this equipment would delay by more than a few hours any U.S. invasion of the island, officials said. If Washington should decide that direct action against Cuba had become necessary, nor has the buildup gone far enough to rule out successful guerrilla operations or a national revolt, they add.

Performers Forced To Compete With Society on Parade

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera opened the longest season in its long history Monday night, but none of the subsequent performances is going to be quite like Monday night's.

They may not, for example, have Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of the President, acting a center box in the Diamond Horseshoe—in headed pink tulle and a chic piled-high hairdo.

They also are not likely to have a grand dame called Zsa Zsa Gabor strolling languorously out of Sherry's Lounge in the old opera house, trailing black velvet.

For, in the finest tradition of opera opening nights, the opera, Umberto Giordano's "Andrea Chénier," had to defer to the spectacle of society on parade in the lobbies, lounges and corridors.

Earliest Opening
The start of the 26-week season came on the earliest opening night in the Met's 79-year history, but not too early or too warm for the mountains of sable, mink and chinchilla traditionally displayed on this occasion.

The opera told a half-fictional story of the poet André de Chénier, who was condemned to death in the terror of the French Revolution despite his sympathy with the revolutionary cause.

Franco Corelli sang the title role. Eileen Farrell was Maddalena, who chooses to go to the guillotine with him. Robert Merrill was Gerard, the former butler who condemns the poet.

The Associated Press arts editor, Miles Smith, found the production "a bright visual spectacle" and praised the three leading singers, as well as Andrea Velis in the role of a spy and Jean Madeira as Madelon, who gives her only son to the revolutionary army.

Vatican Refuses to Accreditate Israeli Government Official

CHICAGO Daily News Service — The Vatican has declined to accredit an Israeli government official as representative of the entire Jewish religion at the Second Vatican Council.

Israeli sources in Rome charge that "Arab pressure" is behind the Vatican's refusal to accredit an observer Dr. Haim Vardy, director of the Christian sector in the Israeli Ministry of Religion.

The first reaction to the invitation of Pope John XXIII was the refusal by the Orthodox Grand Rabbinical Council meeting in Paris last November. But American rabbinical opinion, especially in reform Jewry, was critical of the Orthodox refusal.

At this point the World Jewish Congress, headed by Dr. Nathum Goldmann began negotiating with Augustin Cardinal Bea, president of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity.

No Objection
At first Cardinal Bea agreed to accept a nominee from the World Jewish Congress and no objection was made to the Israeli official, Israeli sources say.

When word reached the Arab governments represented at the Holy See, however, they expressed objections to an Israeli government official being chosen as Jewry's observer. The Arabs suggested that by accepting an Israeli official from a government that the Holy See does not recognize, the Vatican might be prejudicing its attitude toward Jerusalem. The Vatican in general leans to the U.N. formula that Jerusalem is an international city, sacred to three faiths—Christian, Jewish and Islamic.

When these attitudes became known, the Vatican is said to have ruled that Vardy could come only as a journalist. The Vatican is also said to have hinted that it would be even better if Vardy didn't come at all.

Vatican quarters admit that Cardinal Bea has persistently sought Jewish observers but they withhold particulars.

W. Germany Falls for Polish Trap

CHICAGO Daily News Service — By protesting a speech on Poland by Pope John XXIII, Western Germany seems to have fallen into a trap laid for it by the Polish Communists.

Hilger von Scherpenberg, Bonn's ambassador to the Holy See, fished out a few words from a long speech delivered by the Pontiff to Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński and the handful of Polish bishops permitted by the communists to attend the Second Vatican Council.

The papal words, which the Germans interpreted as prejudicial to their claims on their former provinces of Silesia and Pomerania, administered since World War II by Poland, were:

"Late in my diplomatic career I have observed the struggles of your people battling for liberty and for the inviolability of your frontiers."

Von Scherpenberg took his protest to the Vatican secretary of state and also alerted Josef Cardinal Frings of Cologne.

Communist newspapers in Italy, Poland and East Germany have gleefully taken up the long hoped-for political row between German and Polish Catholics.

Diplomatic observers were surprised that the forewarned Germans allowed themselves to be trapped into an already well recognized plan by the Polish communists to sabotage the Council by stirring a duel between Poles and Germans.

When the Polish government handpicked 14 out of Poland's 63 bishops for the journey to Rome, the Polish communist press demanded that the shrunken mission expand the Pope to sanction the expelled borders.

Out of about 30,000,000 Poles, not accomplished in that time, the 8,000,000 now live in the "western shot will be put off until the next territories," about 2,500,000 having been born there.

Relieves Pain, Heals Faster Cold Water Treatment For Burns Supported

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE — ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Cold water is winning more medical votes as the best treatment for burns.

The cold is credited with relieving pain faster, and also with promoting faster healing.

Instead of putting grease on a hand or finger or other area burned by a stove, a match or other heat, some recent medical advice has favored bathing the affected area with cold tap water or ice water.

This idea is by no means brand new. Dr. T. C. King of the University of Kansas School of Medicine said today. Ancient Hindu writings advised the same treatment.

Russian Practice
The first-aid manual for Russian soldiers advises exposure to cold water or cold air, he added.

Moon Rocket Launching Set For Wednesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Engineers and technicians, frustrated for 24 hours by a faulty spacecraft component, made final preparations today to launch the Ranger 5 spacecraft Wednesday toward the moon.

The launching was called off late Monday when checkout could not be completed in time.

Ranger 5 is intended to streak across a quarter million miles of space, take closeup television pictures of the moon and then land on the moon.

NASA has a favorable prediction for the mission ending Friday in which to launch the rocket to put Ranger 5 on the desired course. If the launching is successful, it will be the first time the 8,000,000 now live in the "western shot will be put off until the next territories," about 2,500,000 having been born there.

Senator Wants to Reduce Stockpiles, Diminish Costs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Farmer "gets on his feet" there Republican Senator Alexander Wiley, a candidate for reelection, proposed today the development of a new farm policy that would come.

Wiley said in a Milwaukee statement the goals of the program should include reducing surplus stockpiles and diminishing the annual cost of price support programs to the American taxpayer. He said:

"We need to look, to a large degree, to the farmers, individually and through their organizations, to work toward more effective long-range production planning to produce for consumers—not government storage; better distribution and greater consumption of dairy and other farm products, and finding more ways to utilize dairy and other farm products for industrial purposes."

Nason on Education

Teen-Age Pupil Told Boys and Study Can't Have Same Import

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:
I am 13 years old and have what to me is a serious problem. How can you think of boys and think about your school work too?

Nancy, Waterloo, Iowa
Answer:
You are right, it is a problem since people can think of only one thing at a time. You cannot decide not to think of boys, but you can decide to think about school work at times, too.

From time to time fill your mind with plans on how you are going to study some subject—say history. If your mind is filled with ideas like reading the book, reciting back what you have learned to yourself, drawing maps and writing reports, the thoughts of boys will be driven into the background long enough to get some schoolwork done.

Dear Dr. Nason:
I am thinking of studying business law under the University extension plan. How do you feel a woman of 43, with high school and business school education, with children in late teens and college would fare? I would like to work in a law office.

G. H., Jonesboro, Ind.
Answer:
I know many women of your approximate age who are successful in returning to school. The country needs the help of stable individuals with well trained minds. I suggest, however, that you make inquiries and lay out a careful program of training for the type of position you hope to obtain. You will lose too much valuable time if you start without a plan.

Dear Dr. Nason:
Can you possibly add to your discussion on "underachievers"? Have you some practical suggestions for using methods which have proven successful for you? Everything you stated holds true for our son. We have tried a psychologist, a tutor and personal instruction on outlining and organizing material—all to no avail.

H. S., Ballston Spa, N.Y.
Answer:
Perhaps your approaches have been to give him help with his immediate problems. What he needs is a better understanding of all of the skills of learning.

I suggest that you get a copy of "You Can Get Better Grades." Not only have him read the booklet but find a teacher or some good student to study the material with him and help him develop a plan of action for more successful schoolwork.

Dear Dr. Nason:
Our 16-year-old son entered the 10th grade this September but he still does not know how to study. It's pathetic how he flounders about. He's so busy with daily assignments that the evening is given over to frantically "getting through" before bedtime.

He is sincere and earnest. Can you give him some idea as to how to go about studying?

M. M., Salt Lake
Answer:
Encourage your son to make plans in advance on the overall way that he will study each course. Five minutes spent before the evening meal planning the evening's work will help avoid much of the confusion when study time comes.

(Dr. Nason will discuss in his column questions that seem of most general interest. You can write him in care of this paper.)

(You may obtain a copy of Dr. Nason's "Help Your Child Succeed in School" booklet by sending $1 in cash or money order (no cash) to this newspaper.)

Right vs. wrong

when you choose stocks and bonds

Maybe you're considering whether or not investing in securities would fit your situation. You might have in mind owning stock to increase your income through dividends or perhaps to give your capital a chance to grow as the years go by. Or you might be thinking of the greater stability of bonds.

Now for the big question: how to go about it?

Wrong: Jump in when the first hot tip comes along.
Right: What's the hurry? Buy securities the way you'd buy anything important—with care. When a company interests you, get all the facts you can—growth pattern, profit record, factors that might affect its future. Most of America's best known companies are among the 1,200 listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This group earns more than 60% of the net profits reported by U. S. corporations. They pay stockholders about 60% of all dividends. Roughly 90% of them have paid cash dividends in the last 12 months.

Wrong: Don't worry about risks. You're bound to win.
Right: There's no such thing as investment without risk. Many things cause stock prices to go up—and down. What's more, a company may not continue to pay dividends on stock or interest on bonds. It's just common sense to keep the risks in mind. But if your company prospers, you may too.

Wrong: Invest every cent you can lay your hands on.
Right: Provide for living expenses and those inevitable emergencies first. Then decide what might be invested. Start in a small way, if you like. One convenient system is the Monthly Investment Plan which requires as little as $40 every three months.

Wrong: Try for a quick killing.
Right: The stock market is no place for get-rich-quick schemes. Set your goals and make them practical.

Wrong: Any broker will do.
Right: Choose your broker with care. They're not all alike. Registered Representatives in Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange have satisfied Exchange requirements for knowledge of investing. Don't expect them to know all the answers. But they can help you evaluate the facts in a sensible way.

Investing may offer you a new interest in life—a way to meet growing expenses or realize some of your family's ambitions in the years ahead. It's well worth the care of starting right.

Author Gives Inside View of Wall Street

Hardly anyone off the Street knows much about the men who occupy the seats of power and influence behind the paneled doors on Wall Street. Written from the investor's point of view, "The Insiders" by Thomas A. Wise, one of the new books on display at the Appleton Public Library this week, penetrates this world of anonymity and provides close-ups of the men who direct the operations.

The first part of the book focuses on the auditors, the men who decide what information will be reported and how it will be reported. A most interesting fact about auditors is that they often disagree with one another. Two entirely different reports may be constructed by two auditors having identical data.

Next, the author examines some powerful operators: Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, the biggest broker in the world; Lehman Brothers, the oldest investment banker in the United States; the Milbank family, which controls the least publicized of the "mature" great fortunes of America.

Wise winds up this section by describing nine powerful individuals who swing a lot of weight on Wall Street, although they are virtually unknown outside the financial community.

The third part of the book consists of three case histories which illustrate that it is possible for companies listed on the stock exchanges to be robbed blind by unscrupulous insiders who put their minds to it.

The final section discusses the stockholders' legal rights, the value of the corporate annual meeting, and the realities underlying the present enforcement of the securities laws.

"You English Words" is a book about the fun, excitement and fascination that John Moore, as writer and reader, has discovered in the English language. It is an amateur's book about the history of words, the makers of dictionaries, the growth of language through "pickings and stealings" from other languages, and the familiar and unfamiliar lore of words and men.

The author confesses to being an incorrigible collector of words.

Last Term of Congress Was Big 'Fiasco'

Both President And Legislators Were Irresponsible

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Never in American history has there been revealed such a clear case of irresponsibility in government as has just been exhibited by the Congress and the President.

The fiasco cannot be blamed entirely on either political party, nor altogether on the President. It's the fault primarily of a system which provides no way by which the people can hold both the executive and the legislative responsible in the midst of a presidential term. Yet there is a congressional election a few weeks away, and President Kennedy is urging the people to vote Democratic instead of Republican. The reasons for this are not clear. Congress itself is split into four blocs. In addition, the delays and confusion of the last weeks of the session of Congress that has just adjourned were to a large extent the result of quarrels and disputes among the leaders of the President's own party.

Inept Leadership

Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, Democrat, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said, for instance, on the floor of the House of Representatives last Saturday:

"I have sat under ten speakers — but I have never seen such biased and inept leadership."

Mr. Cannon also criticized the Democratic Party's majority leader, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, charging that the latter offered to support him in his restrictions on the public works bill if he would permit certain appropriations to go through.

"In other words, gentlemen, justice is for sale," Rep. Cannon said. "No thought of principle. No thought of the obligation of office. It is a question of the highest bidder."

In England and Canada, under a parliamentary system, the people have a chance to fix party responsibility and to assure themselves that, in the same election, they will get a united leadership of the legislative and the executive. Today, President Kennedy is campaigning around the country charging the Republican Party at fault for failure to enact all his proposals, when in reality this fundamental schism in his own party has brought constant dissension and division.

"Against Progress"

Mr. Kennedy is saying on the stump that the Republican Party has been "and is" "against progress." But his opponents will reply that the Republican Party is really opposed to "progress toward national bankruptcy."

The indicated deficit for example, for the fiscal year that ends next June 30 is between $6 and $8 billion, although last January the President in his budget message to Congress predicted a surplus.

All this is happening even without any substantial tax cut. In fact, public spending has reached such a high rate that, making no allowance for a tax cut at the January session, the Congress has just pushed the annual budget deficit for the fiscal year starting July 1 next is likely to be $11.1 billion according to estimates made by statistical experts who study the trends of government receipts and spending.

If, moreover, there should be a tax cut next year of around $7 billion—which is a modest amount compared to the promises being made—the deficit might reach $18 billion for the fiscal year ending a little more than 20 months from now.

The House of Representatives has wound up with the usual hypocritical speeches, wherein members of both parties praise each other. The past session, of course, deserves a modicum of applause only in the sense that public spending was not allowed to go any higher than it did.

Consequences?

For the truth is that Congress has sought to appropriate funds for all kinds of social-welfare and public-works projects. All of these doubtless can be defended as worthwhile at some time or other, but can the nation today afford unlimited spending irrespective of consequences? Can any political party be called responsible if it insists on cutting taxes substantially when deficits are growing bigger and bigger? A private citizen or business must forego luxuries or even worthwhile projects and see that the budget is balanced lest bankruptcy be induced. Apparently it is reasoned that it's all right for the government to disregard budgets, run a big deficit year after year, and risk a loss of confidence in the monetary unit.

The nation has been experiencing a business recession that isn't over yet. Mr. Kennedy expected the government's receipts to be $93 billion in the current fiscal year so that there would be a half-billion-dollar surplus. But it turns out now that the receipts are to be $85.5 billion.

But spending is being increased just the same. As for authorizations—not actual expenditures—cut at the January session, the Congress has just pushed the annual appropriations past the $100-billion mark for the first time in peacetime history.

So it's a case of fiscal irresponsibility — a belief that the nation can have its cake and eat it, too. It's a case also of political irresponsibility. For neither political party presents a solid front on the matter of national economy, although the Conservative Democrats do have more allies in the Republican Party than in their own.

Conservatism may, therefore, be really defined nowadays. It means a policy of conserving the nation's fiscal soundness. It is opposed to Liberal spending and liberal authorizations of public money for things the nation doubtless should eventually have but cannot afford today in the midst of a "cold war," when $50 billion is necessarily being spent each year for armament.

Low-Yield Nuclear Blast Set Off by Reds

To Your Good Health

Surgery Required for Ectopic Pregnancies

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

stoppage could be from infection and swelling, or from scar tissue in the tube, or from some less common defect.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain an ectopic pregnancy.

An ovum is fertilized in one of the other of the very small Fallopian tubes. After that it progresses along into the uterus—or anyway it should.

The ovum then attaches itself to the wall of the uterus, grows, presently separates — except for connection via the placenta — and develops into the baby-in-formation, safely enclosed in the protective sac.

The uterus, being a most sophisticated sort of tissue, grows at a corresponding rate, so there is plenty of room.

Now suppose something prevents the ovum from making its natural journey through the Fallopian tube into the uterus. The

Molner

If that happens, the ovum still seeks to grow, but inside the Fallopian tube it has very limited space. Further, the tube, unlike the uterus, is not able to expand to provide room. The tube can't expand; the ovum must grow. In a relatively short time, by which I mean a moderately small part of the usual nine-month term, something has to give. Usually it is rupture of the tube.

There is great pain associated with this, obviously, and something has to be done immediately. Surgical removal of the trapped ovum, and usually removal of the tube.

The whole thing happens early in pregnancy. There is no sign at all in the beginning. There may be any positive sign that a pregnancy has begun, except for a single missed period. The missed period signals the beginning of pregnancy. Pain or other symptoms then indicate the stoppage, or "ectopic" pregnancy. Or "tubal pregnancy," as it is also known.

Nothing can be done except to operate and remove the damaged tissue. You cannot possibly "save the baby."

It is not a rare condition, as abnormalities of pregnancy go. I wouldn't want anyone to worry about this condition, since normal pregnancies are the rule and abnormalities the exception. But if a period is missed, and presently severe abdominal pain begins (lower abdomen), call the doctor at once. This sort of thing, as you can see, is no casual "stomach ache" or "cramp." It is serious, and the sooner it is diagnosed and treated surgically, the less chance there is of danger.

Long Effect.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does pentothal sodium, when used as an anesthetic, have any after-effects, long-term or immediate?

It is eliminated rapidly by the body, and has no long-term effects when used in the amounts required for anesthesia.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a B.M.R. test?

A "basal metabolism reading,"

Battery Cable Short Ignites Truck Fuel

NEW LONDON — The New London Volunteer Fire Department was called at 1:38 p.m. Monday when a short in a battery cable caused gasoline to ignite on a truck in the Abraham subdivision.

The truck, owned by Murphy Concrete Products, was delivering concrete to a house under construction when the blaze broke out. Minor damage was caused.

meaning the rate at which you metabolize your food, or turn it into energy. Since the rate at which you do so is approximately parallel to the rate at which you use up oxygen, the test is performed by having you breathe through a tube from a tank of oxygen. The amount used is calculated with age, weight and anesthetic, have any after-effects, long-term or immediate?

The thyroid gland dominates metabolism. The test is in effect an index of whether the thyroid is normal, overactive or underactive.

Sheinwold Experts Can Goof

It's hard to believe, I know, but the sad fact remains that even ranking experts can go wrong when they have to find the right play for just one suit. Pardon me for snickering, but some very good friends of mine are living proof of that smug statement.

Nobody says you have to like West's opening bid. It was meant to be a "weak" two-bid, but "decrepit" would be a better description. This type of opening is used by most African experts to show a good six-card suit in a hand that is not quite worth a bid of one.

You can't complain too much about West's bid, however, since it may have been responsible for pushing South into the wrong contract. Four spades would have been a better contract.

Still, when this hand came along in the recent regional tournament in Ashbury Park, N.J., four prominent Life Masters perpetrated the bidding shown in the diagram. And West, who could have murdered the contract by leading the king of hearts like any normal human being, decided that this was a good time to lead dummy's suit instead of his own.

Rain Fashion

Umbrellas with gaudy jeweled handles are flooding the rainy day fashion market. But the status symbols are those with catskin handles that match similarly trimmed rain coats.

Comedy of Errors

The first trick was one of the worst in the history of the Garden State. Declarer played the queen of spades from dummy, and East covered with the king.

Naturally, South took the ace of spades and returned the suit to bring in five spade tricks. Defense was hopeless from here on.

Nobody will ever know why East put up the king of spades at the first trick. If he played his low spade he could hold declarer to just two spade tricks. South would get two tricks in each suit, which is no way to score game at no trump.

But South is still trying to explain why he played the queen of spades from the dummy. He should just let the opening lead ride to the ace of spades and return a low spade to finesse with dummy's nine. That would guarantee five spade tricks.

Maybe the moral of this little tale is that covering an honor doesn't always pay.

Answer: Bid two hearts. Despite the trump length this hand is not worth a jump to game.

Designing Woman

Combine Wood Finishes

No furniture finish in the room need match any other, according to this room in the trend-setting Decoration and Design Show '64, October 12-23 in New York. Designer Galen Brand, a member of the New York chapter of the American Institute of Interior Designers, which sponsors the show, believes that a room is enriched by a variety of rich woods and finishes, and chose five which vary both colors and grains.

The Italian olive wood of the desk is lightly finished to show its characteristic grain, but the desk chair is in the heavier, darker finish authentic to its Biedermeier style. The tub chair frame trims one fruitwood with ebony, the daybed frame blends in another, slightly darker fruitwood, and the cylindrical table is in tortoise shell finish. Wood beauty is flattered by the color scheme—amber gold for wall paint and duvetyné plain on the daybed and embossed to line the niche behind it. The tub chair is softly grayed olive, and black is used for lampshades and for leather on the desk top and desk chair seat. Curtains out of view are white. The floor, laid to reproduce old parquet, is vinyl in wood grain effect in two shades of brown.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

VINDICTIVE EMPLOYEE

Dear Louise: I have been quite unhappy with my job and am negotiating for another. If and when the time comes for me to give notice, how should I write a letter of resignation? It will be difficult because I feel antagonistic toward my boss and would like to include my peevishness in my resignation.

Louise Davis Answers: I suggest that you put personal feelings aside and go to your boss and tell him that you are resigning to take another position. Or write him a letter to the effect that, "I am offering my resignation as of such and such a date as I will be employed by another company."

Despite unpleasantness, there is always something good about every human being and every job. I'm sure you can conjure up some honest and sincere remark, hoping to depart with some good feelings that you too are a good Joe. Perhaps you might say, "I have gained valuable experience while I worked here and appreciate it. I hope that replacing me won't cause you too much inconvenience."

Remember that your present employment record will be on file. Some time in the future you may have to list it for future employment or for reference, so you might as well be amicable without being vindictive or hypocritical. Venting your pent-up dislike of the boss by "telling him off" would do you more harm than good. Forbearance and self-discipline are great factors in climbing the business ladder.

Your Problems Good Manners Demand Girl Keep Mouth Closed After Meal

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 12 years old. My parents have a fault that bothers me something terrible. They talk with food in their mouths at the dinner table. They also chew with their mouths wide open which is about the crudest thing a person can do.

I would like to know how to correct them. Dining at home is becoming a very unpleasant experience for me.—Well Mannered Girl ask. Why in the world would a boy do a thing like this? He is not stupid. His parents are heartbroken and nobody can figure out what got into the lad. Can you explain it?—Question Mark

Dear Question Mark: Some kids steal cars (and other things) because they don't have anything else to do. "Kicks," they call it.

A boy who would rather steal a car than ask to borrow one is undoubtedly looking for excitement.

When children of prominent families break the law, usually there is a punitive motive involved. They wish to humiliate and hurt their parents, and this is a sure way.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Girl: How nice that you know how to keep your mouth closed at the table. Please take my advice and keep it closed away from the table, too.

Far more serious than talking with food in your mouth, is talking out of turn. Your parents perhaps did not have an opportunity to learn some of the fine points of etiquette. They must have some admirable qualities to have raised such an elegant young lady as you, so why don't you emphasize their good points and overlook the rest?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are worried parents. Our daughter is a good-looking young woman of 20, she has a pleasant personality and did fairly well in school. Pat excelled in athletics and at one time had her heart set on teaching physical education, but she quit college after two years to take a traveling job with a sporting goods firm.

Now Pat has the crazy idea she wants to join the Armed Forces. We don't know any girls in the service, but we've always had the notion they come from low-class families and that their morals leave much to be desired. Since we have no authentic information we are writing to you for guidance. What are your ideas of women in the service?—T. and R. F.

Dear T. and R. F.: In the absence of authentic information it's unfortunate that some people believe the worst. Regardless of the career a girl may choose, she maintains the same moral standards she learned at home.

To qualify for the services a young woman must meet rigid physical, mental and moral requirements. Careful screening and close supervision insures first-rate conduct. Girls who fail to measure up are handed their walking papers.

The women's services offer pleasant living quarters, well-balanced meals, medical and dental care, smart uniforms, economic security, and excellent opportunities for advancement.

I recommend the Armed Forces for the young woman who wants to see some new faces, get out of a rut, and at the same time serve her country. Information can be obtained without obligation by checking your phone directory under U.S. Government for the nearest Army, Navy, Air Force or Marine Recruiting station.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The 17-year-old son of our dear friends was arrested last week for stealing a car. We were shocked beyond words and so was everyone else in our social circle.

The family is prominent and extremely well-to-do. The boy had access to his mother's car as well as his dad's. All he had to do was

The Ailing House

Plans Given For Building Swim Pool

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Where could I get some information on how to build an outdoor swimming pool?

A: Free instructions on building outdoor swimming pools are available on request from the Portland Cement Association, 53 West Grand Ave., Chicago 10.

Sticky Polished Furniture

Q: The mahogany furniture in the living room has been carefully polished for many years. Recently the surface began to feel very sticky. How can this be corrected?—Grand Rapids, Mich.

A: There is probably too heavy a polish accumulation on the surface of the furniture. I suggest removing this with turpentine and fine steel wool, or with a good wax-removing and cleaning preparation, available at supermarkets, housewares and hardware stores. Follow paste instructions carefully. Then apply a thin coat of top quality paste wax, buffing well. The thinner the wax, the more rubbing, the better the results.

Painting Bamboo Drapes

Q: We have bamboo matchstick drapes on our enclosed heated porch. After several years use, these are beginning to look worn. How can they be painted?

A: The easiest way is to spray these drapes with good quality enamel in aerosol form. Be sure to protect the area behind the drapes and the surrounding "neighborhood" with heavy wrapping paper or plastic sheeting. Before applying the enamel, wipe surfaces with fine steel wool and turpentine to remove all trace of grease, wax, grime, etc. If possible, do the job outdoors; much less mess!

New Roof Over Old?

Q: Our 40-year-old house has two layers of roofing at the present time. Heavy hail in June damaged the roof to the extent that a new roof will have to be applied. Should the old roof be removed or can we apply a new roof on top of the present two layers? The house is a bungalow type. The timbers are in very good condition. The space to be covered is 3,434 square feet. We have been told the third layer of roof would be safe and would add extra insulation. Any information will be greatly appreciated. We will use composition tiles. (Is the self-sealing type preferable?)

A: From the description of the problem, I agree wholeheartedly with the advice to put the new (third) layer of roofing over the present roof. It will definitely add rigidity and insulation qualities. Since you state the timbers are in good condition, the additional weight should be borne with ease. Definitely, the self-sealing type of shingles give extra protection, as you ask. They don't flap in high winds, and driving rain is sealed out.

The party-giving party-going food in which most of us find ourselves happily ensconced at this season is no doubt reflected by the dates already filling up your calendar. Designed with just the degree of dressiness that offers the widest social opportunities, Anthony Blotta's sleeveless success could easily become the most active party-gone in your wardrobe. It's side-wrapped slender-binding of contrast, spiced with three double-looped bows, along the step-in opening edge. The full length center panels are cut on princess lines while a waist seam joins the side bodice to the pleated skirt. Neither too high nor too low, the bound neckline is the perfect shape for your prettiest beads.

Originally shown in sheer wool with satin accents, this dress displays its seasonless good looks long before dark and continues on into the wee small hours, never missing a fashion beat en route. For all those wonderful little-evening affairs, we suggest faille, silk or rayon crepe, feathery tweeds, silk and wool blends of chiffon flannel; and for southern wear, shantung, plain or printed silks, linen or novelty cottons. A Lovelier You

December Bride

A lovely writes: I am going to be married at 4 o'clock in a small chapel, just before Christmas. And there will be grandchildren on both sides of the aisle. You see I will be a December Bride in more than one sense. Will you please give suggestions for making the occasion as warm and happy as I feel, as we both feel.

A December bride, although she be married in June, may make her wedding plans with the knowledge that they scarcely can miscarry. In her family and friends she has a reservoir of affection on which to draw.

When the ceremony happens to fall at Christmas, she has only to dip into the traditional decor of the season to create an atmosphere that brings joyful response from everyone — youngsters and elders.

A chapel decked with evergreen boughs and tall tapers, a reception bedecked with open roses would embody simplicity, sentiment and warmth. Against those backgrounds, the bride would look charming in an afternoon costume of deep, stained-glass red, green or blue. Velvet or silk damask

Clean Outdoor Grill Before Storing Away

Don't put that outdoor grill away dirty. It will be easier to clean now than next summer.

All three main surfaces should be cleaned: the body of the grill, its accessories and the fire box. Grill bodies should be first soaked in a solution of water and low sudsing detergent. After scrubbing and rinsing, dry thoroughly.

For cooking surfaces—the grids, or the grates — a vigorous scrubbing with steel wool and household cleanser is recommended. Again, dry thoroughly before reassembling.

Use a wire brush and plenty of cleanser on the fire box. This is the hardest cleaning job, with carbon deposits, rust and caked ash to contend with. But it's well worth the effort.

A tip for storing! Oil the cooking parts — it'll halt rust, and the oil will easily wash off with any solvent next year. Newspapers make an effective covering for storage.

Most baby sitters today know the fundamentals of baby care but even the most competent ones are only as good as mothers help them to be. Suggestions for successful sitting:

- Sitter should be acquainted with your household—location of light switches, supplies, possible hazards, etc.
- Duties should be made clear from the start, with emphasis on baby care, not household chores.
- Written instructions on special baby duties, feeding, etc. are more reliable than oral ones.

History Shows Men's Styles Undergo Change

BY DON RECK
Chicago Daily News Service

Most women and some men usually agree on one point: Men's fashions do not change.

The suit Dad bought 10 years ago can easily be worn today, if it fits. And if it's in good condition, no one will know the difference, they say.

Well, go ahead. Wear that 10-year-old suit. Then walk about the neighborhood. Let your neighbors see you. An unusual reaction is guaranteed.

You see, men's fashions do change. Let's look at some facts concerning the change in men's fashions.

With the aid of the International Assn. of Clothing Designers, we'll start back at the turn of the century and learn how some times, subtly, and sometimes radically, men's fashions have changed in the United States.

American men entered the 20th Century in tight-fitting "Edwardian" clothing. The jacket was a high four-button, single-breasted model. Lapels were notched and trim. There was an extreme cutaway in the jacket, something like today's Continental style. Trousers were without cuffs.

Around 1919 the shoulder pad found its way into men's suits. Tailors went wild. Some of them used pads up to three inches thick. The effect was broad shoulders tapering to a pronounced waistline.

Jackets had one, two or three buttons. Lapels were mostly fan-cy and wide. Jacket fronts were straight with square corners. Trousers were made wider with the traditional soft shoulder that, everything went, including shoulder pads. The natural shoulder suit appeared. The waistline was high on the coats and hips were full. Pockets replaced shoulders as the new point of interest. Anything was in style: flapped, unflapped, vertical, slants, straight and crescent shaped.

This meant a more natural silhouette, shorter jacket length and narrower shoulders with less padding. The "Ivy League" suit, with an even trimmer silhouette, had been a way of life with a long list of variations. Now, who was it that said, "Men's fashions never change?"

Trousers were trimmed to a "bird-leg" effect.

With the Crash of 1929 came another change. Men went for the "he-man" look again. More fullness in men's clothing was evident.

Shoulders and sleeves were puffed. The tops of sleeves were even raised. Lapels were peaked. Vests were double-breasted, and bell-bottom trousers had one last fling.

Men left the Depression years looking for bigger things. They found some in clothes. Big, really big, was the look in the 40s. Shoulders were extremely wide and heavily padded. Lapels were extra wide. It was the "drape look." Remember the zoot-suits? The double-breasted suit was in its glory.

This was what men wanted. After the war, they were determined their civilian clothes would not be similar to any military uniform. The broad-shouldered look was "in" until the mid-1950s. Then came another change.

Return to Naturalness

Onto the scene came the "American natural" look. And it's still with us.

This meant a more natural silhouette, shorter jacket length and narrower shoulders with less padding. The "Ivy League" suit, with an even trimmer silhouette, had been a way of life with a long list of variations. Now, who was it that said, "Men's fashions never change?"

Charles Breunig To Speak on 'Louis Philippe'

"Louis Philippe, the Last King of France" will be the topic of Charles Breunig, associate professor of history at Lawrence College, at the fourth of the Lecture

Charles Breunig

Series, sponsored by the Women of All Saints Episcopal Church. The program will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Parish Center.

The speaker has traveled and studied extensively in France. His special field of interest is late 19th and early 20th Century European history as related to Christian Democratic parties in Europe. He obtained his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Behind came the "Continental"—the traditional soft shoulder that, had been a way of life with a long list of variations. Now, who was it that said, "Men's fashions never change?"

Sid Caesar Returns to TV Tonight

BY T-V SCOUT

9:30-10 (Channel 11) Sid Caesar is back in a new once-a-month half-hour series he calls As Caesar Sees It. It has the usual sharp Caesar wit. In one sketch, Sid is The Brain, part of the body of a sailor (Jim Dooley), and The Brain uses a mass of dials and controls to tell the body what to do. Another sketch has Jane Cornell as Sid's wife and Norma Douglas as his mother-in-law; the three pantomime a family squabble as the orchestra plays a classical symphony. Then there's a skit about friends, with Sid and Jane (again man and wife) trying to figure out which friends to invite when they get extra tickets to a big dance. Sid is doing his own commercials this time.

7:30 (Channel 2)—The Lloyd Bridges Show has Bridges, as writer Adam Shepard, really go off on an imaginative binge this week. He sees an old car, with the words "Just Married" painted on the side, hauled out of a ravine where it had apparently been abandoned years before. This triggers him to dream up a fanciful plot about a fleeing gangster and a dying girl who use the car for a brief moment of happiness.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — The emotions get a bit out of hand on Empire this week. The Garrett ranch is the site for an annual "ride," involving millionaires only. Among the guests are Victor Jory as an aging meat packer with both financial and physical problems and Claude Akins as an opportunist who would like to take over Jory's company. For an hour, the two (plus Richard Egan) bicker about old vs. new methods of business, etc. (Color)

8:30-9:30 (Channel 11) — The Untouchables has its usual bootlegging story, with its usual mild twist. The gimmick this week is that the bootlegger, played by Joseph Sirola, has read a little economics. So he decides to adapt the stock-piling principle to hooch, and stash the stuff away to drive up prices. But he has a double-crosser in his crowd — George Mathews, as a put-upon hood who decides this is his moment for revenge.

9:30-9:50 (Channel 4-5) — The casting is the brightest note on The Dick Powell Show this week. Powell plays a gangster and Peter Falk plays a doctor, the opposite of what you'd expect from these two. The setting is a prison, where Falk uses three convicts as guinea pigs in a hepatitis experiment. John Larch, Alejandro Rey and Powell are the three.

9-10 (Channel 2) — The Garry Moore Show has its best outing of the season, primarily because Nancy Walker is on hand, and they've written three skits for her, the kind of thing Carol Burnett used to do so well. In one, she's the Blue Fairy, with Garry as Pinocchio and Durward Kirby as Gepetto. Another has her as the wife of a gubernatorial candidate, interviewed by Moore as a kind of David Susskind. Finally, she's Alan King's fiancée inspecting a seventh floor walk-up apartment he has found.

10:20 - 12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight's guests are Haunani, Maecel Wilson, Kay Gill and Linda Thompson. (Color)

Stand-Up Comedian Spokesman for Negro

Dick Gregory Fine Entertainer

With His Very Funny, Sharp Wit

BY JINGO

Yesterday there went on the market a book by and about an entertainer. It's more than an anthology of quips and sharp one-liners — although on the surface that's what it is. What value it may have beyond this entertainment comes from the fact it is by and about Dick Gregory.

As Brooker T. Washington and Jackie Robinson blazed wide avenues in their field of competition with the whites, Gregory is doing the same for his.

Of course, that remark is a prime target for successful contradiction. Gregory is certainly not the first Negro entertainer. The minstrel man and buck-and-wing artist have been with us for years and years. So popular has the Negro entertainer been that the white man has come to the extreme of compliment through imitation by appearing in black face.

What avenue Gregory is pioneering leads away from the shuffling, grinning, self-effacing Negro entertainer of the past. Gregory is a stand-up comedian — the first of his race.

Hugh M. Hefner, editor-publisher of "Playboy" and creator of the Playboy Club where Gregory got his first big break, says in the book's introduction, "Gregory has added a new dimension to the world of comedy. He is a black funnyman who does not get his laughs by fearing ghosts in B movies, rattling 'dem bones' or other such demeaning antics. He is another much-needed spokesman for his people, one who can reach the world in a way that makes it listen."

Such a spokesman could be tiresome, but a sampling of "Gregoryisms" fight serve to dispel any such thoughts.

No Soft Punch
On drinking: "Wasn't that nice of them to come up with a Freedom Rider's Martini? That's right — a Freedom Rider's Martini. Three and you get stoned."

On the Civil War Centennial:
"Since they started this Civil War Centennial, they're showing a lot of those old movies on TV again. The ones where, at the end, all the slaves are weeping and wailing, 'cause the South lost. Now ain't that sofeethin'? That's like Jimmie Hoffa pulling for Bobby Kennedy."

On Buses: "Can you imagine how it will be, when they hire the first Negro bus driver in the South, and the steering wheel's 25 feet long?"

On Astronauts: "A lot of people have been asking why there are no Negro astronauts. Well I got a surprise for you. One of those seven boys is. He's just looked this way since they told him what he volunteered for."

"Makes You Wonder"
On America: "Makes you wonder. When I left St. Louis, I was maging $5 a night. Now I'm getting $5,000 a week — for saying the same things out loud I used to say under my breath."

"Isn't this the most fascinating country in the world? Where else would I have to ride on the back of the bus, have a choice of going to the worst schools, eating in the worst restaurants, living in the worst neighborhoods — and average $5,000 a week just talking about it?"

The book is called "From the Back of the Bus." Gregory's dedication says, "This book is dedicated to Abraham Lincoln — if it wasn't for Ahe, I'd still be on the open market."

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. My bird won't take a bath. Bird is beginning to show on his head and the bottom of his feet. What can be done? Miss Cathy Schuller, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. A television comedian used to keep his audiences laughing with references to a "dirty bird." But, before you put your feathered friend in that category, let me point out that birds seem to bathe for the sheer pleasure of it, not necessarily for cleaning. The same applies to the wild birds who seem to derive great joy from cavorting in dust. Birds' feathers are covered with an oily substance which turns away water. It's like water running off a duck's back. If this were not so they would be soaked through after every rain and probably could not fly well. What you consider dirt may be a fungus infection. It may be advisable to let a veterinarian examine him.

(Dr. Moller will send books on pet care to readers submitting best questions. Mail yours on a postcard in care of this paper.)

Chef Chooses Omelette as Impressively Tasty Meal

"For ease, speed, and an impressively tasty meal, it's hard to beat the omelette," says Perry Knowlton, vice president of a New York literary agency and amateur chef.

Knowlton shares his secrets for making a sport of French Omelettes.

For individually cooked two-egggers, it's best to use a sloping pan about 8 inches across the top, he says. It should be seasoned, too, so that the eggs won't stick at crucial moments.

This seasoning is accomplished by heating olive oil in the pan over low heat for 30 minutes. After you've seasoned a pan, don't wash it—just wipe it out with paper towels. Save the pan for eggs—nothing else.

Add Pinch of Salt
Next, add a pinch of salt to 2 eggs in a mixing bowl—use no liquid. With a fork, beat only enough to mix white and yolks (not frothy).

Heat a teaspoon of butter or olive oil in your skillet, tilting to grease sides. When butter stops sizzling and begins to brown, or oil from forms ripples, pour in eggs.

Use high heat. Eggs will begin to solidify at once. Quickly and continuously drag cooked portion of eggs from the sides of the pan to the center with the back of fork, times up, parallel to skillet. Let uncooked part flow to the outside.

"Toward the end of the cooking," says Knowlton, "build up the sides by swirling the pan—lift it slightly off the range. Remember, the whole thing is a matter of seconds."

Ready to Fold, Serve
"When most of the egg is firm."

Completely Off His Rocker?
'Monty' Praises Mao, Castro in Latest Book

BY WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Chicago Daily News Service

LONDON — Warm tributes to Red Chinese dictator Mao Tse-tung and South Africa's racist Premier Hendrik Verwoerd distinguish the book "Three Continents," latest literary effort of Lord Montgomery.

In his opus "Monty" describes many of his highly advertised postwar journeys and makes some remarks that serve to strengthen the sneaking suspicion that Britain's wartime hero has gone completely off his rocker.

He describes Mao Tse-tung as "a delightful person" with "a great sense of humor" and says that his program of "moral uplift" can "stand comparison with any nation in the Christian world."

His book records with warm approval the fact that "immoral acts between young men and girls are a major crime with the heaviest penalties" and appears to condone the fact that "there has been some chopping off the heads of those who oppose you."

Moral Laxity

He seriously repeats Mao's explanation of why Red China does not permit more visitors from the West, namely that "Western peoples brought with them a laxity in moral standards which might impede the high standards he was trying to reach in China."

Monty added: "I felt a bit sad because it was difficult to refute his statement."

Monty reported that Fidel Castro "is devoted to the people. . . I am told he is constantly on the move talking with his people, with whom he is very close."

Verwoerd, who recently led South Africa out of the British Commonwealth, is described by the aging field marshal as "a leader in the true sense of the word."

Monty added that Verwoerd's reactionary racial policy has the full support of all clear-sighted Bantus who understand they can "gain nothing by resistance."

No Numbers

One of the most interesting features of the book is provided by Collins, the publishers, who in Monty's own manner have used numerals for numbers instead of spelling the numbers out. Thus after reporting that he had discussed pigtails with some young Chinese girls, Monty wrote "a young girl always has 2."

Monty's book was given a surprisingly warm and sympathetic reception by two distinguished British writers: Harold Nicolson, whose review appeared in The Observer, and Sir Arthur Bryant, who reviewed the book for the Sunday Times.

On the other hand it was torn to pieces in a brilliant review by Nigel Dennis in the Sunday Telegraph in which Dennis placed "Three Continents" on a plane with "Gulliver's Travels." Of the numbers gimmick he wrote "This typographical eccentricity adds unbelievable piquancy to a narrative that is startling enough without it."

High-Altitude Blast Attempt Fails 4th Time

The failure was another blow to United States missile prestige and an embarrassing disappointment to scientists and technicians at Johnston Island. Only one shot from Johnston in the current series has been successful—on July 8 when a giant thermonuclear device was detonated at an altitude of 210 miles.

Monday night's flop followed one 24-hour delay because of bad weather. The schedule went forward Monday night toward its planned firing time of 9:30 p.m. (2:30 a.m. EST today). Radio monitors picked up a voice from Johnston saying "liftoff, liftoff."

Then, eight minutes later, the same voice screamed, "negative!"

The test was designed to probe the ionosphere and determine whether such explosions could be used to mask sneak missile attempts.

Hair Shortage; Too Many Wigs

LONDON (AP)— Britain's Ministry of Health reports that the worldwide craze for glamour wigs among women has caused a shortage of human hair.

Several big companies which furnish wigs to Britain's National Health Service are cancelling contracts between their costs have gone up.

Said Jean Emile, a specialist who sells wigs outside the National Health Service: "In five years I've seen the price of hair double. It now costs me anything between three pounds ($8.40) and five pounds ($14) an ounce."

Courts Crack Down On Student Rioters

Faculty Committee Suspends Youths Taking Part in Riot Before Notre Dame Grid Contest

MADISON (AP) — The University of Wisconsin and the courts cracked down Monday on those arrested in disturbances that preceded and followed the Wisconsin-Notre Dame football game last Saturday.

While 36 of those involved figured in court proceedings, the University announced that the faculty committee on student conduct and appeals voted to suspend Wisconsin students participating in the incidents, pending disposition of their cases by the student court.

"The faculty committee is fully aware of the summary nature of its suspension action but took it out of concern for the welfare of the entire community," the seven-member group said in a statement.

Prompt Handling

The student court planned to meet today "to handle the cases as promptly as possible," the committee said.

Dean of Students Dr. LeRoy Ludberg met Monday with Madison officials and law enforcement officers to plan ways of preventing similar outbursts. It was estimated that possibly as many as 5,000 persons joined the disturbances Friday and Saturday night.

Police made 47 arrests, and Monday 19 of the cases were disposed of in court. Twenty of the at least 48 hours on the island nation and to confer with Castro.

President Kennedy toasted Ben Bella at a White House luncheon Monday as a man "who has borne heavy burdens and bears them now with distinction."

In reply, Ben Bella paid tribute to "political courage which has more meaning than physical courage, because it is easier sometimes to display physical courage than the political kind." This was a reference to Kennedy's support, while a U.S. senator, of Algerian independence.

Kennedy also told Ben Bella "Algeria has a chance to prove that all those who wanted to hold back the tide of history were wrong."

This was perhaps Kennedy's strongest condemnation, since he became President, of the French colonists who bitterly fought Algerian independence.

Ben Bella's Washington visit set a new style in official U.S. welcomes. The setting for the 21-gun salute, red carpet and full-dress band was the long, green lawn south of the White House instead of the airport, where ceremonies are drowned out by the noise of planes.

heavily associated with lack of prenatal care, prematurity and high infant death rates," said the panel's report. "Poor nutrition and inadequate postnatal care as well as genetic and other biological factors also contribute."

The panel urged these steps:

1. Establishment of a domestic peace corps to spur voluntary services to retarded, especially in "deprived and distressed areas."
2. Establishment of a national research institute of learning to investigate basic learning processes.
3. Expenditures of $45 million over the next three years to provide comprehensive health services—including expansion of the federal maternal and child health grant program—for "high risk" pregnancy cases in low income groups.
4. Establishment of 10 new research centers to investigate biological, behavioral, social and other areas.

ters over the weekend. All but $10,500 in cash was later recovered.

Speaking in President Kennedy's home city, Eisenhower saved his strongest endorsement for George C. Lodge, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, who is opposed by Democrat Edward M. Kennedy, the President's youngest brother.

Supports Lodge

Lodge, son of former U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, served in the Eisenhower administration as an assistant secretary of labor.

Eisenhower said, "He has the energy and enthusiasm and vigor of youth. More importantly, he is prepared for the job he seeks."

In contrast, Eisenhower said, Edward Kennedy (whom he never mentioned by name) "has boiled down the high qualifications long demanded of a candidate for the United States Senate into this crass, almost arrogant query: Who can get the most out of the United States treasury for Massachusetts?"

He accepted no compromise of pledged word or withdrawal of principle. No walls were built. No threatening foreign bases were established. One was ended and incipient wars were blocked.

"I doubt that anyone can persuade you," he told his audience, "that in the past 21 months there has been anything constructive on foreign relations to equal any part of that eight-year record. For the moment, at least, I shall have no more to say on that subject."

The affair was billed as a birthday dinner for Eisenhower, who was 72 Sunday.

Receipts Nearly $500,000

The champion Republican vote-getter of all time, he packed the armory. One party official estimated the gross receipts at nearly $500,000.

Shortly before Eisenhower's speech, police revealed that $70,000 in cash and checks collected for the dinner had been stolen from Republican state headquarters.

You're to Blame For Wall Street Dip

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The worst business slump in modern times has been sweeping through Wall Street since the stock market crash last May. The recession is hitting financial houses ranging from the multi-million dollar giants with branches around the world to the small local firms specializing in cheap stocks traded in the over-the-counter market. Of course, there are exceptions to the trend — there always are in any industry — but there is no doubting the current downturn in the securities business from coast to coast.

"You," the disenchanted stock buying public, are the main reason for this recession in Wall Street.

Sharp Cuts

You have sharply cut your trading in stocks listed on all exchanges in recent months. Average daily volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange this month is running under 28 million, far below the 35 million-share daily volume considered the break-even point for most firms. Volume of trading on the Big Board so far this year is down over 9 per cent from 1961. On the American Stock Exchange, the second largest exchange in the country, trading volume is down over 38 per cent from 1961.

You have turned cold on buying of mutual funds to a spectacular degree. Net purchases of mutual fund shares in August totaled only $78 million, down 43 per cent from July, down 71 per cent from January. Net purchases of mutual funds in September were even lower. The net figure measures the extent to which new purchases of mutual fund shares exceed redemptions of the shares.

No Denying Drop

You have slashed your buying of over-the-counter stocks even more than your buying of listed stocks. There aren't exact statistics for this market, but no one tries to deny that the dip in trading in the over-the-counter market has been immense and that, as a result, a lot of over-the-counter firms are in a brutal financial squeeze.

You also have substantially reduced your buying of new stock issues — those "hot" stocks with which you were so enamored in 1960-61. The total of new stock issues sold through July was $6.2 billion against $8.4 billion in the same period of last year but this tells only part of the tale. Businesses the country over which had planned to sell new stock issues in this period have shelved their plans indefinitely not only because the buyers aren't there but also because they would have to sell the stocks at much lower prices than they had originally planned.

Rockefeller Wins Paper's Support

GARDEN CITY, N. J. (AP)—Newsday has endorsed Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for reelection on the basis of what the Long Island newspaper called his "substantial record of accomplishment during his first term."

The politically independent daily newspaper of which Alicia Patterson is editor and publisher supported Democrat W. Averell Harriman in his campaign for reelection against Rockefeller in 1958.

So it goes, with every statistic on trading in stocks confirming the decline in public participation. Nor are institutional investors offsetting this; they've cut their participation too.

Interest Too High

The reasons aren't hard to figure out. The crash of this past spring has been a dominant force with hundreds of stocks at their lowest levels in years and down from their 1961-62 peaks. Those owning the stocks have an understandably sour attitude on continued buying and those who have sold out at losses this year have an even more sour attitude. The fact that financial institutions are paying as much as 4 and 4½ per cent on cash put into a savings account has been another force, for it has attracted many who otherwise might have bought stocks to put their nestegg into a savings account instead. The Securities & Exchange Commission's probe into the qualifications and practices of mutual fund salesmen and the recent Wharton School's critical report on the mutual fund industry surely have contributed to the plunge in mutual fund sales. Mutual fund sales would have gone off anyway due to the stock market's break; the criticisms have been additional blows. The general sluggishness in the economy has been a factor. The dullness in business has been a background for the dullness in the stock market.

Expenses Being Cut

The results have been cumulative. Lavoffs particularly of clerical workers, are spreading through securities firms. Over time has been virtually eliminated. Firms are cutting down on expenses for research, advertising, travel, entertainment, services. Mergers are multiplying. Salary cuts are being imposed. Branches are being shut down. There will be few year-end bonuses in Wall Street this December.

Of course, you, the public, will be back on a great scale one day (after prices have gone way up, if the past is any guide), and there'll be razzle-dazzle in Wall Street again. But as of today, I need not travel far to see a recession industry. All I need do is walk a couple of blocks from my Manhattan and I can get the "feel" of it wherever I turn.

BREAKTHROUGH IN COUGH CONTROL

New Duraspan.—revolutionary time tablet—relieves coughs up to 3 times longer than cough syrups

For the first time: up to 12 hours continuous relief in convenient tablet form

Read the amazing facts about Duraspan, the new continuous relief cough tablet from Bristol-Myers. How it goes to work fast, releasing an effective new non-narcotic medication a brand new way. How it keeps on relieving coughs due to colds, flu, smoking, up to 12 hours.

SOUNDS GREAT. Extra hours of cough relief. But—can any tablet really do a better job than syrups? Here are some facts. You be the judge.

New non-narcotic discovery

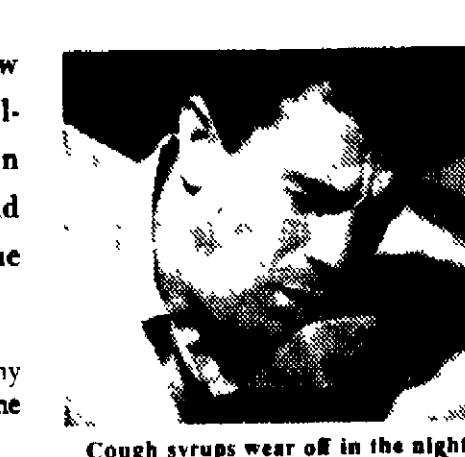

Codeine has been the most often prescribed cough suppressant. But codeine is narcotic, can cause upsets or even be habit-forming. Now a new medicine effective as codeine but truly non-narcotic has been developed. It works so well just a tiny bit relieves coughs for four hours or so.

Why a "time" tablet

Instead of putting this medication in a syrup, Bristol-Myers had an idea. Could they make a special tablet that would not only give a four-hour dosage, but keep on supplying the medication a little at a time, hour after hour.

They tackled the job and created the Duraspan "time" tablet, first continuous relief cough tablet.

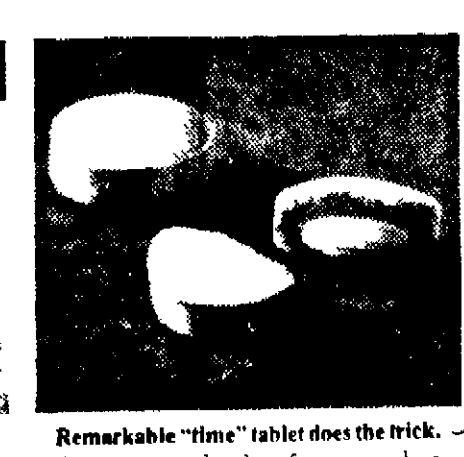

The small picture and caption above show how it works. The important thing is—it starts relief with a rush, then maintains continuous relief up to twelve hours. That's up to three times longer than cough syrups.

Cough syrups wear off in the night. Your cough may return and wake you up. And nobody likes to get up in the middle of the night for another dose of medicine.

New Duraspan's relief lasts all night, lets you sleep. This may well be the greatest boon any cough preparation has ever offered.

Remarkable "time" tablet does the trick. Outer section dissolves fast to supply a rush of medication. Inner part dissolves slowly for hours, gives continuous relief.

Comparison to syrups

Cough syrups can be swallowed by babies. They also feel soothing to the throat. Beyond this, the Duraspan "time" tablet seems to have clear advantages. They are:

- All night relief. Cough syrups wear off in the night. Your cough may return, wake you up. But two Duraspan tablets at bedtime relieve all night long... let you sleep.
- All day relief. Important for you at work and for your children at school. Just take Duraspan in the morning.
- No codeine worry. When a cough starts you don't need to hold off giving needed medication. Get after the cough right away with Duraspan.
- Less stomach dosing. Loading a child's stomach (or yours) with repeated doses of syrups can be a problem. Some even contain ingredients that upset stomachs. Duraspan contains no upsetting ingredients, no alcohol, no codeine and, so important for diabetics, no sugar. (You'll come to like these nice, neat Duraspan Tablets.)

Those are the important facts. Duraspan is recommended for coughs of colds, flu, smoking. Be sure you try it.

Menasha Council Balks At School Fund Request

Alderman Says $35,800 Asked Is 'Clearly Deficit Spending'

MENASHA — The Menasha Council committee of the whole do about it?" erupted in protest against the board of education's request for $35,841.86 to operate Menasha's public school system for the balance of 1962.

At a meeting Oct. 8, the Menasha board of education approved a request that the council allot $35,841.86 to the city's public school system as the "unresolved budget amount necessary to operate city public schools until the end of this year."

Said one alderman at Monday night's committee of the whole session: "If this isn't deficit financing, I don't know what is." Replied another: "There's no question that it's deficit financing."

Calder Stadium Sewer Estimate Set at $7,937

MENASHA — Estimated cost of storm sewer extensions in the Calder Stadium area will be about $7,937.50, according to A. W. Scholl, vice president of McMahon Engineering Co., Menasha.

In a report to the Menasha Council's committee of the whole session Monday night, Scholl also noted that of this figure about $1,000 of the nearly $8,000 cost could be justifiably included in the total $50,000 cost to the city of the Nathan Calder project, while the approximately $6,000 balance could be covered by the $1.3 million bond issue for storm sewer and related work approved by the City of Menasha over a year ago.

The $7,937.50 would cover storm sewer installations on approved streets immediately adjacent to the Nathan Calder stadium site on Eleventh and Warsaw Streets, and also installation of the necessary drainage line and catchbasin — manhole in the actual stadium area.

Kaukauna JVs Score 19-0 Win Over Menasha

MENASHA—Scoring two of its touchdowns in the last few seconds of the second and fourth periods, Kaukauna's Jayvees blanked Menasha 19-0 here Monday afternoon.

The Ghosts tallied on the final play of the first half when Gary Weigman went over from the one-yard line. They moved 50 yards with the second half kickoff for their second score. Quarterback Mike Andres sneaked over from the one.

On the second last play of the game, Bob Broeren broke through the middle from the four. All extra points were missed.

Council Control

In an attempt to answer that question, City Attorney Richard J. Steffens noted: "The Council of the City of Menasha has no control over how the board of education spends its money once it has been allocated to the school system. But it does have control over the initial allocation of that money. In short," he emphasized, "if you (the Council) don't allocate certain funds, they (the board of education) can't spend it."

In reply to another question by an alderman concerning the possible attempt by a board of education to spend money even if it isn't allocated, Steffens replied: "According to state statutes, a board of education cannot enter into legal contracts unless they bear the signatures of the mayor and city clerk, in addition to the authorized school board representative. So that an attempt to spend money which has not been specifically allocated by the Council and does not bear the signature - approval of the named city officials could, in legal terms, invite law suit."

"So we really don't have to approve of their request for this $35,841 budget supplement," one of the aldermen immediately ejaculated.

Pressures

"You don't really have to," Ally Steffens replied, "but I might warn you that pressures might be made to bear — such as was the case years ago when the Council refused a specific budget by the board of education. Why, so many parents raised an immediate protest to their alderman that the demand was finally met. This could possibly happen again," Steffens concluded.

The Menasha Board of Education's initial budget request for the 1962 school year, prepared last November, was for $1,062,834. Of this amount, $952,255 was to come from the local tax levy, including $84,525 for debt retirement.

Hunter Downs Duck but Dog Brings Back Muskrat

OSHKOSH — Here is one hunter who will be sending his dog to school to learn what a duck looks like.

Charles Schultz, Rhinelander, reported to Winnebago County Police he was hunting ducks Saturday on Lake Poygan. He downed one of the birds, which fell among weeds.

The dog was sent to get the duck and it soon came swimming back carrying something in its mouth. Schultz reached down and discovered the dog had a muskrat, still very much alive and full of fight.

Before he was able to kill the rat, it had inflicted cuts on Schultz's right arm which required several stitches to close. County police took the muskrat to Madison to have it examined for rabies.

Road Program Under Fire At Kaukauna

Public Works Board Discussion Heated At Monday Session

KAUKAUNA — The Board of Public Works meeting Monday night turned into a heated discussion when aldermen disagreed over handling of the city's permanent road program.

Fifth ward Alderman William Rogers objected to the program. "I'm working on those streets and if I were a taxpayer on streets involved I would refuse to pay," he said.

Alderman Roger's objections followed a listing of streets for possible permanent surfacing in 1963. Rogers pointed out that a meeting had been in session for four hours. He said the street question should be held for a future date or merely presented to the engineer by individual aldermen without a lot of "talking."

Rogers indicated some sections of streets have less than 2-inches of concrete when city specifications call for 6-inch concrete.

He said pouring concrete in bad weather causes the problem because forms settle whenever the paving machine passes. He said concrete trucks had stood mixing the same batch for three hours before pouring and "even though" not an engineer, I know this is not a good policy."

He criticized the council for having only one inspector on a job which required at least two men because often the inspector was off on another street when paving work was being done. Margaret and Idlewild St. work was hit as poor projects. Diedrich St. work was called satisfactory.

Others Check

Rogers stated he was not trying to blame anyone and felt the contractor was doing an adequate job, but lack of inspection was depriving the city of a good program.

State Fair Relocation Vote Set for Farm Bureau Meeting

WINNECONNE — Resolutions programs should have as their primary objective reduction of government-held stocks and encouragement of the free market with appropriate regulation as the regulator of agricultural supply.

Reapportionment: We feel that the legislative districts are satisfactorily apportioned as they are.

Bonding and Licensing of Farm Produce: We feel that all buyers of farm products should be bonded and licensed.

Education: We feel that the law should be changed where there is a village in the school district that it does not have to have a county superintendent.

Tax Program: We favor elimination of the personal property tax and relief from excessive real estate taxes. To replace the revenues lost from those sources we believe a general sales tax or an expanded income tax program should be enacted, but we oppose an expansion of both sales and income tax programs.

We feel that our state and national governments should operate under a balanced budget and not keep raising the debt limitation.

The arrest of the Packer star dates back to June 30. He previously pleaded innocent to the charge of running through a State Patrol radar setup on State Highway 54-57 north of Green Bay in Preble.

Hornung was stopped in his Thunderbird sports car while traveling south about 11:01 p.m. He was accused of going 70 miles an hour in a 20 mile zone.

The electrical contract was awarded Stephensen Electrical Service, Appleton, low bidder at $30,930.

Start Next Week

Contract will be let through Architect George Narovec, Appleton, this week and construction will begin on the new grade school next week.

Successive low bidders for the general contract were: Precour Construction Co., Oshkosh, $292,700 and P. G. Miron Construction Co., Inc., Appleton, $296,572. On the combined heating, ventilating and plumbing contracts, Angermeyer Plumbing and Heating Co., Inc., Neenah, submitted next to the lowest bid with $77,410 and R. Wenzel Plumbing and Heating Co., Appleton, offered its contract at $79,280. Second lowest electrical contract bid came from Kell and Werner Electric Co., Neenah, $36,200, and the next low bid was V and M Electric Co., Menominee, Mich., $36,588.

Bids closed on Friday of last week and the contracts have been studied and evaluated by the building committee through last night's final meeting when the contracts were awarded. The building committee members are Msgr. Becker, William Hackstock, Paul Klein, Rufin Suess, Gervase Kolbe, Edward Resch, Joseph Rhode, Carl Meier and George Narovec.

Msgr. Becker in reviewing the time table said that there will probably be a groundbreaking ceremony for members of the parish later this week. The go-to which now occupies the center of the building site will be moved into the cemented area east of the present grade school, closer to Second Street. It will be illuminated as in the past.

September of 1963

The new grade school will have a full basement and two stories, containing 12 classrooms, one double classroom which will serve as a library and workroom and one double classroom which will provide an audio visual auditorium. It is hoped that the new school will be completed by September, 1963.

This year the enrollment at St. Mary grade school, grade one through eight is 998 boys and girls. In addition three first grade classes are attending the Menasha Public Schools. Projected enrollment figures show that classroom space is critical in the grade school and the new addition will be filled within the next two years.

Neenah Will be Host to District PTA Conference

NEENAH — The annual fall conference of the Sixth District Parent-Teacher Association, which includes units in eight counties, will provide an opportunity for PTA members to meet and exchange ideas, to clarify reasons for PTA positions on fund raising, use of funds, relationships with school administrations, good programming and for being non-political, non-sectarian and non-commercial.

The Neenah Area PTA Council will be the host unit for this year's conference, to be held Oct. 23 at First Presbyterian Church fellowship hall. Copies of the program are being sent to school parents in Neenah and Menasha.

Magnetite Mill Project Underway At Spruce Falls

K-C Associat Spending $6.5 Million on Pulp Operation

Construction is well underway at Kapuskasing, Ont., for the new $6.5 million pulp mill of Kimberly-Clark Corp.'s associate, the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co., Ltd., manufacturers of pulp and newsprint.

The expansion project, largest in the Kapuskasing plant since 1960, when a three-stage chlorine dioxide bleaching was built, is expected to be completed late in 1963. Installation of the magnetite process at Spruce Falls will mark its first commercial use with an integrated newsprint operation.

Magnetite is a shortened term for magnesium base bi-sulphite pulp. Spruce Falls now makes a calcium base acid sulphite pulp. The magnetite process means that instead of calcium as the base chemical for the liquor in which wood chips are cooked, magnesium will be used. This process will use a liquor somewhat less acid than that in the normal sulphite.

Major advantage of the new process is that it will allow for evaporation of the spent liquor and recovery of heat and chemicals, thus reducing costs of pulp to manufacture. Equal in importance is the quality which the magnetite process is expected to impart to the paper. A stronger, brighter, cleaner and more opaque sheet will be possible, resulting in a newsprint of superior running and the printing qualities in the press room.

Greater Yield

Another advantage of the new magnetite process will be the greater yield of pulp from the wood—roughly three quarters of a ton of pulp per cord as compared to six-tenths of a ton per cord by the sulphite process. The process also will make for an improved high strength pulp, and will permit use of woods other than spruce, such as jack pine and poplar. Using the magnetite pulp techniques, two hundred tons of pulp from Canadian black spruce will be used as chemical furnish in this newsprint operation.

Further cost reduction under the new process is possible not only because chemicals can be recovered, but because 63,900 pounds of steam per hour is generated as the spent liquor burns. Spruce Falls will continue to use its existing sulphite mill to manufacture sulphite pulp for sale to other companies such as Kimberly - Clark Canada Ltd.,

UW Student Travels by Scooter

Michael McKeen, University of Wisconsin junior from Appleton, uses a motor scooter to make the 100-mile trip home from Madison on weekends.

Mike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeen, 500 W. Prospect Ave., started traveling to school by motor scooter when he was a senior at St. John High School, Little Chute.

On the open road he can go 45 to 50 miles per hour. The trip takes about 45 minutes, and from Madison takes about three hours. The gas tank is small, but the mileage is upwards of 50 miles per gallon—enough to make even foreign car addicts envious.

After the first snow, Mike stores the Italian scooter for the winter. During rainy weather he uses a poncho and keeps going. He wears a crash helmet, and uses a large Navy bag to carry his belongings.

Mike is majoring in English, and hopes to be a college professor.

Ripon College Board Elects New Chairman

RIPON (AP)—The election of Milwaukee attorney Clark Mead Robertson as the new chairman of the board of trustees of Ripon College was announced today.

Robertson is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the Harvard Law School. He is also a trustee of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Further cost reduction under the new process is possible not only because chemicals can be recovered, but because 63,900 pounds of steam per hour is generated as the spent liquor burns. Spruce Falls will continue to use its existing sulphite mill to manufacture sulphite pulp for sale to other companies such as Kimberly - Clark Canada Ltd.,

Former Newscarriers Tell What Job Meant to Them

Many of us can remember back to that first job. How "grown up" we felt when our boss told us we could have the job. How thrilled we were in assuming a responsibility to someone besides ourselves or our parents. How proud we were when we brought home our first pay envelope.

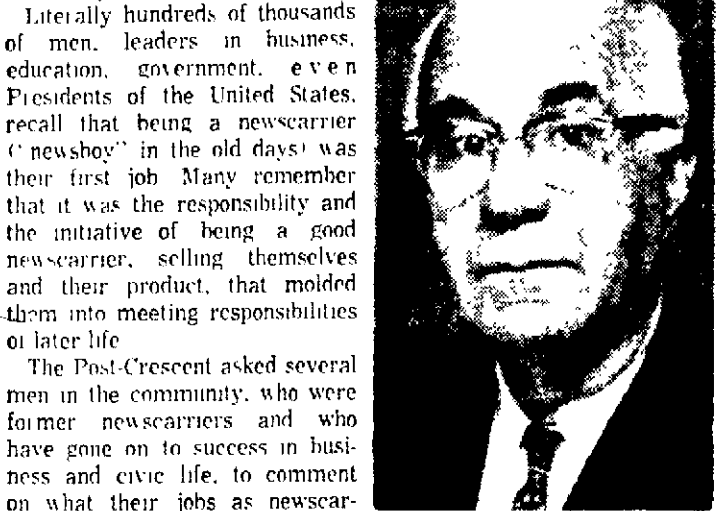

Literally hundreds of thousands of men, leaders in business, education, government, even Presidents of the United States, recall that being a newscarrier ("newsboy" in the old days) was their first job. Many remember that it was the responsibility and the initiative of being a good newscarrier, selling themselves and their product, that molded them into meeting responsibilities of later life.

The Post-Crescent asked several men in the community, who were former newscarriers and who have gone on to success in business and civic life, to comment on what their jobs as newscarriers meant to them. What they said will appear this week, National Newspaper Week, in the Post-Crescent.

Here is what County Judge Gustave J. Keller remembers about what it meant to be a newscarrier:

"I started delivering what was then the Appleton Post back in 1911. I remember the feeling of pride I had. How I felt I really "belonged to the family" now that I was a wage-earner bringing home my one dollar per week. Dollars were a little bigger in those days, of course.

"Being a newsboy helped me to participate in community life. Here I was, delivering the news to my customers. Sometimes I panionship of a puppy. I bought it at the pig fair for 50 cents. . . one-half of a week's pay.

"The thing being a newsboy gave me was the start in actually belonging to society. That job gave me the knowledge that I was really a part of, and had a responsibility to the community in which I lived."

Planners Approve Land Annexation

Kaukauna Commission Will Recommend 19.07 Acres for Dump

KAUKAUNA — A recommendation by the planning commission for annexation of 19.07 acres of ravine land in the Town of Buchanan led to a lengthy discussion by the board of public works Monday night.

The annexation request was made on behalf of the Thilmann Pulp and Paper Company which is seeking area for disposal of solid waste from the paper manufacturing process.

The planning commission recommended annexation with the stipulation that 350-feet of 6-foot pipe be installed in the ravine, partially on city owned property and partially on Thilmann property, which would be covered with the Thilco waste, to provide the city with an access road to other level property owned by the city which could be earmarked for future park purposes.

Share Cost

Cost of pipe installation, estimated at $15,000 would be borne by the city and by Thilmann. The paper firm agreed to fill in the city property first, thus giving Kaukauna earlier access to the property. The firm also agreed to deed all property over to the city after the area no longer was suitable for disposal of industrial solids.

Fourth ward Ald. Russell Dix objected to the city saying a share of the pipe installation cost saving, "they need the place to dump, let them pay." Other aldermen said Thilmann would pay the full cost if granted exclusive dumping rights, but the city felt it would be better to retain partial dumping rights in event the city ever needed a site to dispose of refuse material.

Gesture Noted

It was pointed out Thilmann could dump on its own ravine property for 30 years without installing a drain pipe but the offer to fill the ravine on city property was made as a good-will gesture to provide the city access to usable lands. Dix indicated the city had plenty of other projects to pay without helping Thilmann pay without helping Thilmann. First Ward Ald. Arnold Vanderloop countered by saying it was a good deal for the city and also helped the major industry.

Fifth ward Ald. William Rogers asked for a more definite cost of pipe installation before accepting the proposal. After a motion to recommend annexation of the land and installation of the pipe all but Rogers voted in favor of the proposal.

Cyclist Hurt; Driver Sought

Thomas Belonger, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Belonger, 500 W. Packard St., received minor injuries about 6:18 p.m. Monday when he was struck by a car as he rode his bicycle on the sidewalk in the 500 block of W. Atlantic Street.

The boy was struck by a car which drove up a driveway from a ravine. The driver of the car stopped and asked if the boy was hurt then got back into his car and drove off.

Thomas was treated by a doctor for a bump on the head. Police are looking for the driver.

Patrolman Joseph VandenOver told the court he chased a car driven by Pahlke on W. Wisconsin Avenue. Pahlke attempted to outrun VandenOver and turned onto N. Lawe Street. VandenOver radioed for assistance from Appleton police. Pahlke drove his car over several lawns on North and Union streets and VandenOver was forced to fire his pistol twice into the air.

The car was stopped on Union Street and Pahlke was wrestled to the ground by VandenOver and other officers. VandenOver was struck in the face in the scuffle, and Pahlke was knocked unconscious.

Pahlke was booked in the Outagamie County jail but was transferred to the city jail because of a lack of space in the county jail.

Appleton Police, Fire Fund Requests Total $1,042,824

Fire Department Outlay Includes Emergency Unit

The 1963 budget requests of the Appleton fire department total $543,994, an increase of $60,400 over this year's appropriation.

Chief Roland Kuehn presented his budget to the council's public safety committee Monday night.

Salaries of department personnel represent the major share of the budget, with $479,573 requested. Chief Kuehn proposed adding three new employees to the department.

Kuehn recalled that he had asked for two additional men last year but the item was deleted from 1962 budget requests.

Emergency Truck

Under capital outlay, the fire department budget calls for expenditures of $27,119 during the coming year, compared to $7,000 in 1962.

The big item under capital outlay is $18,000 for an emergency truck. It would have special equipment to cope with emergencies that might arise at the scene of a fire. Chief Kuehn said it would be "an all-around emergency unit."

Other divisions of the proposed budget: material and supplies, $4,512; travel and car allowance, $950; miscellaneous, $3,005; maintenance supplies, $3,500; repairs and maintenance, $7,050; contractual services, $11,236 and clothing, $6,850.

The department's 1963 budget request is $100,000 more than the 1961 budget.

The committee also approved the city electrical inspector's budget of $22,270, which is $2,290 lower than the 1962 budget.

A street lighting budget of $74,860 was given approval. Of the total, $74,000 is designated for lighting service from the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. The 1962 lighting budget was $71,243.

Both the proponents and opponents of the plan to overhaul the city's financial administrative set-up appear anxious to get all the information they can so as to take a vote on the matter at the Oct. 24 meeting.

The plan was prepared by the Public Expenditures Survey of Wisconsin at the request of the Appleton Taxpayers' Association. It was filed with the common council last month and aldermen discussed it informally and took no action.

Members of the common council asked that information be obtained as to whether the board of education and other separate municipal boards would "go along" with the creation of a finance department and the eventual establishment of a centralized purchasing system. It is expected the information will be available for their meeting later in the month.

"I definitely feel the common council should take action approving the finance director's post when we discuss the capital improvement program on Oct. 24," said Ald. George Buckley.

Created Original Plan

Buckley was author of the original resolution introduced in the council some time ago asking for the study of Appleton's present financial setup.

In addition to recommending from injury suffered because of that a finance director be hired, lack of oxygen between the time the report said the city should Mrs. Gerard C. Boethiaume, 29, died and the time the baby was appointive rather than elective, born.

Homecoming committee chairmen are Pat Hopfensperger, publicity, Molly Beall, decorations, Mary Gilleland, cleanup, Nancy Dafee, refreshments, Peter Robertson, entertainment, and Peter Walters, door.

Police Chief Seeking More Men, Clerks

Appleton's expanding police department has submitted budget requests totaling $498,830 for 1963.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff explained his departmental operational requests at a meeting Monday night of the common council's public safety committee.

The proposed budget, which now goes to the budget examining committee and then the council for final scrutiny, represents an increase of $56,000 over the actual 1962 budget.

Biggest item in the department's budget was the $348,240 for salaries. It is proposed to add eight employees to the staff during the coming year, including four patrolmen and four clerical personnel.

Chief Wolff explained that more patrolmen will be needed because the police department personnel will be going on a 40-hour week.

'Supervisor' Post At Waupaca to Remain Unchanged

In the Friday story, covering the talk of Angus Rothwell, State Superintendent of Schools, to the Appleton Woman's Club, the word "supervisor" was substituted for "superintendent". Mr. Rothwell told of the plan for eliminating the position of county superintendents of schools now before the education committee of the Legislative Council.

The story stated that Mr. Rothwell hopes to consolidate Waupaca and Outagamie Counties under one district upon the resignation of the Waupaca County "supervisor", Norman Schumann. County School Supervisor, has not and does not expect to resign his position. The county superintendent of schools, George W. Barber, has, however, accepted a post with the Manawa School System.

The Post-Crescent regrets any inconvenience this error may have caused.

Kimberly-Clark Traffic Manager At ICC Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on a proposed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads ground into a night session with a parade of shippers generally supporting the plan.

The sessions resumed Monday after a month's recess during which the prepared testimony of technical specialists and users of the lines was distributed to parties in the case.

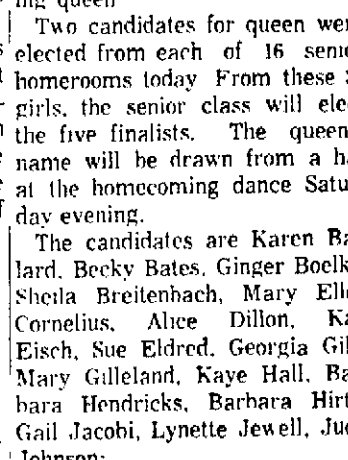

The railroad presidents testified in the earlier hearings.

Monday night officials of three firms which ship freight on the two lines endorsed the merger plan as being good for their business and for the country.

The three witnesses were W. L. Thornton Jr., general traffic manager of Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, Wis.; H. Bruce Reeves Jr., manager of transportation service, Corning Glass Works, Corning, N.Y., and C.J. Harris, vice president for traffic of Continental Grain Co., New York City.

More than 70 witnesses representing shippers are scheduled to testify in this phase of the hearings.

Press for Vote on Finance Director

Some Aldermen Lukewarm About Taxpayers Association Proposal

A concerted effort will be made within the next 10 days to have the Appleton common council decide whether it will create the position of city finance director for 1963.

Both the proponents and opponents of the plan to overhaul the city's financial administrative set-up appear anxious to get all the information they can so as to take a vote on the matter at the Oct. 24 meeting.

The plan was prepared by the Public Expenditures Survey of Wisconsin at the request of the Appleton Taxpayers' Association. It was filed with the common council last month and aldermen discussed it informally and took no action.

Members of the common council asked that information be obtained as to whether the board of education and other separate municipal boards would "go along" with the creation of a finance department and the eventual establishment of a centralized purchasing system. It is expected the information will be available for their meeting later in the month.

"I definitely feel the common council should take action approving the finance director's post when we discuss the capital improvement program on Oct. 24," said Ald. George Buckley.

Created Original Plan

Buckley was author of the original resolution introduced in the council some time ago asking for the study of Appleton's present financial setup.

In addition to recommending from injury suffered because of that a finance director be hired, lack of oxygen between the time the report said the city should Mrs. Gerard C. Boethiaume, 29, died and the time the baby was appointive rather than elective, born.

Police Chief Seeking More Men, Clerks

Appleton's expanding police department has submitted budget requests totaling $498,830 for 1963.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff explained his departmental operational requests at a meeting Monday night of the common council's public safety committee.

The proposed budget, which now goes to the budget examining committee and then the council for final scrutiny, represents an increase of $56,000 over the actual 1962 budget.

Biggest item in the department's budget was the $348,240 for salaries. It is proposed to add eight employees to the staff during the coming year, including four patrolmen and four clerical personnel.

Chief Wolff explained that more patrolmen will be needed because the police department personnel will be going on a 40-hour week.

'Supervisor' Post At Waupaca to Remain Unchanged

In the Friday story, covering the talk of Angus Rothwell, State Superintendent of Schools, to the Appleton Woman's Club, the word "supervisor" was substituted for "superintendent". Mr. Rothwell told of the plan for eliminating the position of county superintendents of schools now before the education committee of the Legislative Council.

The story stated that Mr. Rothwell hopes to consolidate Waupaca and Outagamie Counties under one district upon the resignation of the Waupaca County "supervisor", Norman Schumann. County School Supervisor, has not and does not expect to resign his position. The county superintendent of schools, George W. Barber, has, however, accepted a post with the Manawa School System.

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works Monday night heard a request from members of the city employe union for a 10-cent per hour hike in wages and four weeks' vacation with pay after 20 years of service.

The union also asked for definite dates for contract negotiations, pay for time worked in addition to the 2 hours call in pay now received when working after hours, reduction of the probationary working period from 60 to 30 days and additional foul weather clothing. A representative of the city insurance carrier explained how cost of workmen's compensation and public liability insurance rates would be reduced through a concerted safety program.

Safety Needed

He pointed out various insurance claims which could have been avoided over the past five years through simple safety precautions.

Auto Dealers Want General State Sales Tax

Call Present Plan 'Unrealistic and Discriminatory'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau MADISON — Organized automobile dealers of Wisconsin are calling for a general sales tax to replace the "unrealistic and discriminatory" selective sales tax levied a year ago on specific items including motor vehicles.

The Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association also said today that the sales tax on automobiles is being widely violated in sales of vehicles to non-resident buyers.

In many of the border communities of the state the automobile dealer can legally evade the tax on a sale to a resident of a neighboring state by driving the customer across the line for the completion of the transaction. The tax law applies only when the sale is within Wisconsin, the association explained. Even when the dealer doesn't bother to make the sale technically outside the state's jurisdiction, the violation is virtually impossible for the tax department to prove, it was said.

Border Problems

Border district difficulties in auto sales are especially severe, the trade group said, for dealers in Wisconsin who operate near the Minnesota border because Minnesota does not have a sales tax. There a price differential of even $15 may be sufficient to cause the loss of a sale to a Wisconsin dealer, it was said.

The Association announced that its members at a recent convention declared themselves in favor of a general sales tax, and the exclusion of sales to non-residents in the case of automobiles.

It said dealers should inform legislative and gubernatorial candidates "in no uncertain terms" your opposition to the present discriminatory selective sales tax on motor vehicles and your desire that a sales tax, if retained, should apply to all commodities.

Appleton Man Given 150 Days on 3 Counts

James Mollet Sentenced Following Attack on Girl Friend, Her Family

RHINELANDER — A 26-year-old Appleton man who broke into a Lake Tomahawk home and roughed up his girl friend and her parents last week was sentenced to jail terms totaling 150 days Monday afternoon in Oneida County Court.

James A. Mollet, who told Judge George A. Richards a rambling story of the incidents which led up to the fracas in the Sylvester Koperski home early last Friday morning, was sentenced to 90 days for criminal trespass, 30 days for causing damage to property and 60 days for causing bodily harm to Koperski, 50, his wife, Eileen, 50, and their daughter, Mary, 20.

Term Concurrent

The 30-day term was made concurrent with the 90-day term, while the 60-day sentence will be served consecutive to the 90-day term. The court said the jail terms must be served at hard labor and not under provisions of the Huber act.

Declaring he could not understand Mollet's actions, Judge Richards said Oneida County cannot tolerate such conduct. "When you have served your jail terms you had better get out and stay out," the court observed.

Dist. Atty. Lee R. Krueger told the court Mollet had been dating Miss Koperski while she was working in Appleton the last nine months. He brought her to her Lake Tomahawk home last Wednesday night and stayed overnight Thursday they shopped in Rhineland and became separated and Mary got another ride home. Early Friday Mollet went to the Koperski home and was ordered out. Later he returned, broke down the door and went into a bedroom, where he began kicking and striking Mary and her mother.

Pleads Innocent To Morals Charge

Ignatius Bourassa, 68, 1701 E. Newberry St., owner of a south-side candy and sweet shop, pleaded innocent Monday to two morals charges brought against him by Appleton police.

Bourassa has been charged with indecent behavior with a juvenile and enticing a juvenile for immoral purposes. The acts were alleged to have occurred between June 1 and Oct. 7, involving a 15-year-old girl.

Bourassa waived preliminary hearing and trial was set for Jan. 3, 1963. He was freed after paying $1,000 bond.

Appleton police arrested Bourassa after a week-long investigation involving incidents taking place at Iggy's Sweet Shop, 1701 E. Newberry St. At least 12 persons, both students and parents living in the neighborhood, were questioned by police.

The department was contacted by a parent of a junior high school pupil.

Mrs. Koperski had bruises about the body and two fractured ribs while her husband has a bruised left arm.

Mollet said he broke into the house because he couldn't believe she would not see him. He said "something snapped inside me" after he was struck on the head by the gun butt the first time.

He complained about a constable holding a gun pointed at him and about Sheriff Penny Drivas not permitting him to ride in an ambulance. Koperski once more clubbed him with the gun butt and called where he was treated for severe lacerations of the head and ear. He also had a tooth knocked out.

Sheriff Drivas earlier had reported he decided to bring Mollet to the hospital in his own car rather than permit him to ride in the ambulance because of his belated and body complaining attitude and unwillingness to cooperate with officers.

In 1944, Kimberly-Clark's first creped wadding operations in Canada were set up in a new Kimberly-Clark mill adjoining the Spruce Falls mills. Seven years later a second creped wadding machine was installed.

long enough and the time has come to get a separate vote on it," Buckley added.

"We need to have a finance director," Buckley concluded.

Favors Action

Ald Alvin Tewes, chairman of the council's finance committee, said he favored "action one way or the other" on the finance proposal.

Tewes recalled that at the committee of the whole meeting aldermen wanted more information and answers to their questions. Tewes said if other municipal boards and agencies failed to cooperate, he doubted if such a financial program would work here.

Financial Result

One of the things Tewes wants to know before the council takes a vote is whether a new finance system would save the city money and be more efficient when compared with the present setup. He has requested that comparative figures be presented the aldermen.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell, who went on record favoring the finance director position but was skeptical about some of the other recommendations in the report, said the council would have to take action this month so that money could be allocated in the 1963 budget.

"There is no doubt about it, we need a finance director," Mitchell said. "It's too bad we didn't have one hired by Sept. 1 so he could help with the preparation of next year's budget," he added.

Shawano Police Plan Ruled Invalid by Judge

Sheriff Cannot Demote Personnel Or Change Wages, Circuit Court Says

SHAWANO — Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell Monday ruled invalid a Shawano County Board resolution that consolidated the sheriff and traffic departments. The judge also ruled Sheriff Carl L. Krueger does not have authority to promote or demote traffic department personnel or change their salaries.

He agreed to rule later on the question of whether the county board's law enforcement committee has authority to promote or demote traffic officers.

Judge Parnell was asked to rule on four points of law in connection with a dispute between Sheriff Krueger and Edward Bahr, former traffic captain who has been demoted to patrolman by Krueger.

Submit Briefs

The judge asked Dist. Atty. Frederic Eberlein, who represents the county, and Bahr's attorney, Michael Burns, Seymour, to submit briefs. Burns said he hoped the judge would rule before Oct. 23 — the date set by the law enforcement committee to hear charges against Bahr. Krueger demoted Bahr after the September primary on grounds of insubordination. Bahr had opposed Krueger for the Republican sheriff nomination, and had been critical of the sheriff in the campaign.

Judge Parnell said the resolution merging the two departments, adopted in April, 1961, was invalid because it failed to place (traffic department personnel under civil service as required by state law which grants county board power to consolidate sheriff and traffic departments.

Ordered Demotion

Bahr contends neither the sheriff nor the law enforcement committee has authority to demote him. He asserts power rests with the county board alone.

Krueger ordered Bahr's demotion after meeting with the law enforcement committee in September. Leon Hillicker, chairman of the committee, said later the committee approved Krueger's action. Bahr also contends the committee has power only to suspend a traffic officer for 90 days or until the next meeting of the county board, whichever is shorter.

A public hearing was scheduled by the law enforcement and county board advisory committees after Krueger filed written charges. Burns said Monday the hearing will be irrelevant if Judge Parnell rules the law enforcement committee does not have power to demote or promote. Eberlein disagreed. He said the committee would still have authority to suspend and could do so if it finds there is substance to Krueger's charges.

The Board of Directors of the Fox Valley Mental Health Association toured the Outagamie County Hospital and held its regular meeting there Monday. Going through the pharmacy are, from left, Mrs. Percy Blount, recording secretary, the Rev. William Charland, associate minister at the First Congregational Church, Mrs. Kyle Ward Jr., president, and Thomas Lesselyong, hospital social worker who conducted the tour. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Appleton Man Guilty Of Inattentive Driving

Negligent Homicide Charge Reduced For 70-Year-Old Edwin Wunderlich

A 70-year-old rural Appleton man whose auto struck and killed a Town of Grand Chute youth while the youth was walking his bicycle was found guilty of inattentive driving and fined $150 when he appeared Monday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2.

A charge of negligent homicide while under the influence of alcohol against Edwin Wunderlich, route 1, Appleton, was reduced to inattentive driving by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Wunderlich had been bound over for trial on the negligent homicide charge after a preliminary hearing Sept. 19. No date had been set for the trial and Wunderlich had made no plea to the charge.

The man was arrested Aug. 28 after he struck Raymond Hawkins, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. LuRay Hawkins, route 1, Appleton, as the youth walked his bicycle on Mayflower Drive. Wunderlich was taken to the Outagamie County jail where he was booked on suspicion of drunken driving. He refused to take a drunkometer test.

The youth died at Appleton Memorial Hospital the following day from injuries he received in the crash. That same day, Sept. 27, Wunderlich pleaded innocent of drunken driving and was released on $250 bond.

After the youth's death, Schaefer moved the drunken driving charge be dismissed and a negligent homicide charge be held against Wunderlich. He later amended the charge to include negligent homicide while under the influence of alcohol. Wunderlich requested a preliminary hearing and was released on payment of $1,500 bond.

Wunderlich was to appear the last two Fridays in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, for reading of the charges against him and to make a plea in the case. In each instance, Schaefer asked for a delay to make further investigation and to study a transcript of the preliminary hearing.

In reducing the charge, Schaefer told the court his evidence showed that the youth was struck while the bicycle was being pushed on the roadway and not on the shoulder as originally believed. He also said that witnesses of the accident said Wunderlich did not appear intoxicated.

The bartender who served Wunderlich on the day of the accident testified he had served the man three small bottles of beer. Schaefer also said that a companion of Hawkins's testified that a horn was sounded just before the accident.

Wunderlich, through his attorney, Monday pleaded no contest to the charge of inattentive driving and was found guilty by Judge Gustave Keller.

Marinette Man Faces Trial in Double Murder

Claude Miller to Enter Plea in County Court Today

MARINETTE — Claude Miller, 39, accused of double murder, was bound over to Marinette County Court for trial following a preliminary hearing before County Judge Harry White Monday.

Pleas of innocent and innocent by reason of insanity are expected to be entered for Miller by his attorney today on two separate charges of first degree murder in the deaths of Miller's wife and Elmer Kohler Oct. 6. Miller is accused of the shotgun slaying of the pair in Mrs. Miller's home at Marinette.

Testimony was heard Monday from medical authorities and witnesses to the shooting and in the Wolf River Improvement Association.

Boy Testifies

Young Shelby Keil Jr., 13, a nephew of Mrs. Miller, told the court how his uncle entered the Miller home as the boy, Mrs. Miller, Kohler and Kohler's 12-year-old son, John, sat at the kitchen table. According to the boy's account, Miller stood for a moment in the doorway, then pulled a shotgun from behind his back, firing first at Kohler, then at Mrs. Miller. The boy, who fled the room into a back hall, was fumbling with an outside door lock when he heard a third shot.

The boy, speaking in a strained, almost inaudible voice, told of running to the home of E. E. Bricker next door to summon help, and of seeing Miller run from the house with the gun in his hand as the child ducked into the front door of the neighbor's home. He related how he returned to the house with Mr. and Mrs. Bricker, through the kitchen where the bodies lay, to look for the two Miller boys, 4 and 6, who had been watching television in the living room when their father entered the house. The children were found in a downstairs bedroom behind a door, according to the boy.

Doctor Called

Dr. Clark W. Boren, called to the scene by police, testified about the gunshot wounds.

Most of his testimony concerned examination of Miller following his arrest at Marinette General Hospital Oct. 7. Called to the sheriff's office, Dr. Boren related that he administered the usual tests for alcohol in the blood, and to determine whether the prisoner was under the influence of alcohol.

According to the doctor's testimony, Miller's blood showed 100 milligrams of alcohol, compared to 300 milligrams which he said is considered in the medical profession to indicate intoxication. Other tests also indicated the man was not intoxicated, he said.

Sheriff Marriner Kohlman, who arrested Miller at Marinette General Hospital after the man entered the hospital complaining of an appendicitis attack, told of his own encounter with the man.

In Emergency Room

Kohlman, who found Miller lying on an examining table in the emergency room, said he told Miller, "Get off the table Claude. You're under arrest."

The sheriff testified that Miller, while denying memory of the shooting or of getting the gun at his own apartment, readily acknowledged hiding the gun "somewhere, under a hedge." He did, in conversation with the sheriff, recall seeing his children in the house.

Miller has been scheduled to enter a plea at 2 p. m. today. His attorney said he would file a petition for a writ of inquiry into the mental condition of his client, asking that he be committed to the Winnebago State Hospital for observation. The attorney said his own investigation and observation led him to believe Miller was not responsible for his actions.

Directors Resign

Directors who resigned because of appointment to the planning commission are Gene Garrow, New London; Gordon Bubolz, Appleton; Herbert Behnke, Shawano; and Jerry Grignon, Neopit. The board commended the four retiring directors for their work in the Wolf River Improvement Association.

The board decided that the association would continue its work and its program of development, preservation and improvement of the 223 miles Wolf River basin area and that it would work with Miller, Kohler and Kohler's 12-year-old son, John, sat at the kitchen table. According to the boy's account, Miller stood for a moment in the doorway, then pulled a shotgun from behind his back, firing first at Kohler, then at Mrs. Miller. The boy, who fled the room into a back hall, was fumbling with an outside door lock when he heard a third shot. The boy, speaking in a strained, almost inaudible voice, told of running to the home of E. E. Bricker next door to summon help, and of seeing Miller run from the house with the gun in his hand as the child ducked into the front door of the neighbor's home. Turn Shell Collection Into Statues of Birds

BY CAPPY DICK

If you collected some shells at the beach last Summer, you now can have fun turning them into statues of birds. Figures 2, 3 and 4 show the possible results. In addition to the shells you will need some wire and fast-drying glue.

Study the shells and decide what kind of bird you can make from them. An example is the little auk in Figure 3. Its bill is a small, cone-shaped snail shell. Its head is made of two small, flat shells glued to the wide end of the bill. Eyes are to be painted on those shells. The body is formed of two flat shells glued together. A small, flat shell glued to the body serves as its feet and the bird stands on a flat rock. No wire is needed in making this bird.

The stork in Figure 2 has wire legs. A cone-shaped snail shell is its bill. Two small, flat shells glued together make the head. Wire is used for the neck. Gue it between the two shells forming the head and the two larger shells of the body. The legs are pieces of wire attached with glue and the feet are small, flat shells glued to the opposite ends of the wires.

The peacock in Figure 4 has wire legs, too. The tail feathers are made of one big, fan-shaped shell.

These examples give you the idea. Get out your shell collection, glue and wire and see what clever little birds you can make (Copyright 1962)

Probably yes, but this does not mean that they are physically weaker. It means that other people have allowed them this way of running away from their problems. Boys, from an early age, are usually allowed to be more aggressive than girls. Careful parents may try to teach them not to hit and strike. When boys are aggressive, their conduct is not regarded as unmasculine. Girls, on the other hand, are told that such behavior is not only "bad" but "unlady-like." Therefore, they have to develop more acceptable responses, one of which may be fainting.

In this age of specialization, triple-threaters are rapidly passing from the American football scene.

Two of the best — on the small college level — of this vanishing breed will appear at Whiting Field Saturday afternoon when Lawrence and Ripon renew their high-voltage intrastate series.

The quarterbacking duel between Ripon's Jack Ankerson and Lawrence's Gary Just will not only be interesting in itself but will go a long way toward deciding the outcome of this battle of Midwest Conference title contenders.

Besides being the heart of their team's respective attacks, these two all-purpose QBs have this in common: on the basis of their high school play, neither rated as a good bet for collegiate or offensive stardom.

Movies of AHS, Vike Victories To be Shown

For the first time this season, Appleton Quarterback Club members and guests will see films of two football victories.

Starting at 7:30 p.m. today, in the Jefferson School, movies will be shown of Appleton High School's 20-0 win over North and Lawrence College's 28-0 victory over Monmouth. Coaches Ade Dillon and Bernie Heselson will narrate.

West High School, the Wildcats had such an abundance of runners and passers that he got little or no chance to play on the offense. Gary was outstanding as a defensive back, however, and was named to the all Fox River Valley Conference team. Now, Just plays little or no defense for the Vikes.

Ankerson was on the small side most of his high school career and didn't attain imposing statistics, physique-wise, until his senior year. Jack is now 6 feet, 4 inches tall and weighs 205.

As a sophomore in 1961, Ankerson warmed the bench behind Ripon's Marv Carlson and Jim Cowley until the St. Olaf game when he entered the fray in the sec-

Browns Release Howard Cassidy, Activate Shorter

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns released veteran halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy Monday. Jim Shorter, a rookie defensive back from the University of Detroit who had been on the injured reserve list, was placed on the roster.

Cassidy, 28, and in his seventh year of professional football, came here from Detroit in a three-for-three trade involving Milt Plum, Dave Lloyd and Tom Watkins for Jim Ninowski, Bill Glass and Cassidy.

Cassidy won the Heisman Trophy while playing collegiate football at Ohio State. Coach Paul Brown said he had been pleased with Cassidy's running as a kick-off and punt return man.

However, the move was forced by the need for an additional defensive back. Don Fleming suffered an ankle injury and the Mississippi National Guard has first call on the services of Bobby Franklin.

Papa, Cosgrove, Lelew Assigned to Rochester

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles cut their roster to 35 Monday by assigning five players to Rochester of the International League.

Pitchers John Papa, Steve Cosgrove, Dick Luebke and Jim Lelew and shortstop Mickey McGuire were assigned.

Pierce Pitches 3-Hitter as Giants Even World Series

Jack Sanford Duels Terry in Showdown

BY JACK HAND
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After 13 days, 6,000 miles of jet travel and six ball games, the San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees are all even again going into today's seventh and final World Series game.

And for the third time in the rain-delayed marathon, it will be Jack Sanford of the Giants facing Ralph Terry of the Yanks. Sanford (24-7) shut out the Yankees with three hits and beat Terry (23-12) in the second Series game, 2-0. Terry edged Sanford in the fifth game, 5-3, from rookie Tom Tresh broke a 2-2 tie with a three-run homer in the eighth inning.

The Giants have not won a Series from the Yankees since 1922, a span of 40 years. In six Series meetings, the Yanks hold a 4-2 edge, winning in 1923, 1936, 1937 and 1951. The Giants took the first two—in 1921 and 1922. In all, the Yanks have a 19-7 Series record against all competition while the Giants are 5-9.

Bounce Back

But records mean little to this comebacking Giant bunch, who were written off after their "June swoon." From the brink of disaster, they closed a four-game gap on the Los Angeles Dodgers in the final week of the National League season, then pulled out the pennant in the ninth inning of the third playoff game. One down three different times in this joust with the Yankees, they bounced back three times—the third time Monday when Billy Pierce and Orlando Cepeda led them to a 5-2 victory that snapped Whitey Ford's five-game Series winning streak.

Pierce, an old American Leaguer, won his first Series game with a three-hitter for his 13th consecutive victory at Candlestick Park, and Cepeda, the slumbering "baby bull" of the Giants, awoke from an 0-for-12 hitting slump. He had three hits—a double and two singles—drove in two runs and scored one. The defeat left Ford, top winner in World Series history with 10, sharp.

Badgers Rated 10th in AP Football Poll

Texas Replaces
Alabama as Top Team

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The coach of the University of Texas Longhorns, named today as the No. 1 college football team in the nation, said ratings mean very little to him.

"I'd feel slighted if we weren't in the top ten," Coach Darrell Royal said, "but being No. 1 doesn't make one iota of difference to me."

The Longhorns were No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll and moved into the top spot after defeating traditional rival Oklahoma last Saturday 9-6.

The Longhorns replaced Alabama, the defending national champion, which defeated Houston, 14-3. The Crimson Tide fell to second place. Texas finished with 458 points and 21 first-place votes, compared to 437 points for Alabama. Bear Bryant's club collected 24 first-place votes, however.

Nationwide Panel

The voting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters was on the usual basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second and so on.

Following Alabama, in order, were Southern California, Louisiana State, Mississippi, Ohio State, Arkansas, Northwestern, Washington and Wisconsin.

"I'll tell you one thing, though," said Royal, "Arkansas has reason to be slighted that they aren't ranked any higher."

Undeclared Arkansas, Texas' next opponent, advanced from No. 8 to No. 7 after defeating Baylor, 28-21, in a Southwest Conference game.

Arkansas Offense

Royal said the Longhorns have no hopes of stopping Arkansas' offense this weekend, but can only try to slow them down.

"They have the ability to move the ball and move in a hurry," Royal said. "They score big and it's obvious we don't."

Arkansas and Texas play Saturday night in Memorial Stadium here in a game which many feel will decide the 1962 Southwest Conference championship. Both teams are undefeated through four games. Both have some of the best offensive figures in the nation.

	W	L	T	PT
1. Texas (24)	4	0	0	458
2. Alabama (24)	4	0	0	437
3. So. California	3	0	0	397

Tigers Triumph In Hawaii, 9-3

HONOLULU (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, although out 10 to 9, walloped Hawaii's All-Stars, 9-3 Monday night in an exhibition game before 2,047 spectators.

The victory gave Detroit a clean sweep of the two-game series here.

Norm Cash hit one home run and drove in four runs for the Tigers. His homer came in the third with Bubba Morton on base. He singled Jake Wood and Dick McAuliffe home in the sixth.

The Tigers leave Wednesday for the Far East, where they will continue their barnstorming tour.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Jose (Polo) G. Bino, 137, Mexico, stopped Otis Black-shaw, 136½, Houston, 5.
MANCHESTER, England—Mike Leehy, 170, Ireland, outpointed Harry Scott, 169, England, 10, (middleweights).

Playoff Was Bigger Thrill, Pierce Says

Little Hurler Used
Breaking Pitches
Against Yankees

BY JIM BECKER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—

Throughout a long and distinguished major league career, Billy Pierce has been known as the fellow who loses 2-1 to the Yankees.

The stylish left-hander, now a baseball ancient at 35, pitched many great games against the New Yorkers, and more often than not had a great game pitched against him.

Today, Pierce is the fellow who evened the World Series at three games each, with a three-hitter for a 5-2 victory for the San Francisco Giants.

It was his first World Series win—he lost the third game to the Yankees in New York, 3-2, his accustomed margin.

"It was a great thrill," said Pierce, in his high-pitched, happy voice. "But think my game in the playoffs against the Dodgers was an even bigger thrill."

"After all, this game didn't decide anything."

Would Have Ended

Reminded that if the Giants had lost, Monday's game would have ended the World Series in favor of the Yankees, Pierce smiled:

"Gosh, I never thought of that."

Pierce sat on a little wooden stool in the happy—but not hysterical — Giant dressing room, looking even smaller than his listed 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds, and bantered with reporters.

"No, don't think I surprised the Yankees," he grinned.

"They've seen me for more than 10 years, and being in the other league for only one year doesn't make any difference."

Pierce, born in Detroit, came to the majors with the Tigers, and then labored 13 years with the Chicago White Sox. He compiled a 24-37 career mark against the Yankees in that span.

Out of favor in Chicago, Pierce was traded to the Giants last winter.

The deal could well have brought the pennant to the Golden Gate, as the left-hander found new life in the National League, won his first eight games, and finished with a 6-6 mark although he missed five weeks with a spike wound.

He won the first playoff game.

Hornung's X-Rays Reveal No Broken Bones; Knee Stiff

Reports on 3
Other Packers
Not Definite

GREEN BAY (AP)—The Green Bay Packers, undefeated and untied as they defend their National Football League title, are counting injuries instead of victories and wondering how one will influence the other.

The Packers have won all five latest triumph at 8-21 victory games this season, with their over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

But it was a costly victory, sidelining four Packers, including halfback Paul Hornung who has piled up 62 points in quest of his fourth straight league scoring title.

Hornung went out in the first period with a wrenched right knee. X-rays Monday showed no bone damage, but neither Hornung nor team physician Dr. James Nellen would speculate on his immediate future.

Hornung's stiff, real stiff," said Packer Coach Vince Lombardi of Hornung, the team's place kicker specialist. "We'll just have to wait and see whether he can play next Sunday."

The reports were more encouraging but not definite on the other Packers who left the Viking game with injuries. Defensive halfback Jesse Whitenton has a pulled leg muscle, offensive tackle Bob Skroski a twisted knee and defensive tackle Ron Kostelnik a dislocated shoulder, his second of the season.

"I'm not saying they won't be able to play Sunday," Lombardi said, "but we'll know a lot more when the team works out." The club was due to resume drills to

Houk Says He Had No Intention of Using Pinch Hitter for Ford

Players Support Decision to Play Despite Soggy Field

BY DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Down 3-1 in the fifth inning of a World Series game, but with men on first and second bases, you've got the opposing pitcher in his first jam.

There are two outs and your pitcher, already touched for five hits and not his usual sharp self, is the batter. Do you send in a pinch hitter?

No, if you're New York Yankees Manager Ralph Houk and the pitcher is Whitey Ford. Yes, if you're a second-guesser.

This crucial moment arose in Monday's sixth game of the Series, but even after Ford popped out and the Yankees lost 5-2, Houk wasn't regretting his decision.

He "never thought for a minute" about pinch-hitting for Ford though, as the game turned out, it was the only time all day the Yankees had two men on base against San Francisco's Billy Pierce.

Went to Showers

Use of a pinch hitter seemed all the more the correct move a half-inning later when four Giants hits, instead of a pinch hitter, sent Ford to the showers anyhow.

The Yankee left-hander, winner of five straight Series games, definitely was not as effective as usual in the first four innings. Double plays helped him negate Giants' singles in the first and second, but two singles, a double and a walk, plus his own pickoff error, helped the Giants to three runs in the fourth.

Pierce, meanwhile, retired 13 consecutive Yankees until Roger Maris homered far over the right field fence in the fifth. Then an error put Elston Howard on second, Bill Skowron flied out, but with a 3-1 count on Clete Boyer, Pierce walked him intentionally.

To the fan in the stands, it appeared certain that Houk would send in a hitter for Ford, because reliever Jim Coates was working quickly in the bullpen.

"I warmed up Coates to try to make the Giants think I might pinchhit for Whitey," said Houk. "But I never thought about it. I had four more bats, and Ford is my best pitcher. I'm not going to take out a pitcher like Ford with that many innings left."

Giants' Manager Alvin Dark was probably suspicious of Coates, however. In a very similar situation against Los Angeles here in August, Dark had warmed up a reliever to fool the Dodgers during a Giants threat, but said later it was all a bluff and he had no intention of hitting for his pitcher — who ironically was Pierce.

Not Sound Strategy

At any rate, Coates' warmups didn't keep the Giants from walking Boyer to get at Ford, although it is not usually considered sound strategy to put the potential tying run on base.

After popping up, Ford was rattled for one-out singles by Harvey Kuenn, Chuck Hiller and Felipe Alou, Whitey retired his nemesis, Willie Mays, but Orlando Cepeda batted in the fifth Giants' run with another single that knocked Ford out of the game and put San Francisco ahead 5-1.

The only other person who could be second-guessed was Commissioner Ford Frick, who allowed the game to start despite an outfield soaked by three days of rain.

But players and managers, speaking after the game, supported Frick's decision. Houk said, "The field didn't have anything to do with the game," although the soggy conditions probably gave the Giants an extra base for each of two men when Ford threw a pickoff attempt into center field.

The hall mired in short center field, and by the time the deep-playing outfielders could retrieve it, Felipe Alou had scored from second and Willie Mays went to third.

Dark also ruled out the field conditions as having any effect on the outcome.

Rev. Keller Hits 596 Pin Series

Heinritz, Jahnke Share Honors in Brotherhood League

The Rev. Tom Keller paced the Knights of Columbus American League at the 41 Bowl Monday night with a 596 series.

Fisher Heating (16-8) is the league leader and other honor scores included John Marx, 587; Clarence Kennedy, 550; Dr. C. Hauch, 562; Mike King, 572; Henry Brum, 555; Eddie Flood, 570; North Schaefer, 51; and the Rev. Peter Klauk, 559.

Ted Heinritz slammed a 228 game and Floyd Jahnke had a 579 series to share honors in the Brotherhood League at Hahn's Lanes Monday night.

Heinritz finished with a 572 series and the Heinritz Sheet Metal team (13-5) won a pair of games to protect its first place lead.

Other honor scores included Ted Radtke, 574; and Mel Moody, 550. No individual honor scores were recorded in the Craftsman's League at the 41 Bowl but the league leading Appleton Awning Shop team dropped three games and Gillis Motor Service moved within one game of first place.

Three Teams Sweep Full Sets in Initial Volleyball Loop Play

Defending champion Bleier's Bar, Sindahl's and the Power Company Chargers each won three games in the opening round of Appleton Recreation Department Volleyball League action.

Bleier's beat Appleton Mills, 15-10, 15-5 and 15-2. Sindahl's topped the Power Company Kilowatts, 15-7, 15-7 and 15-11. The Chargers trounced the Police Department, 17-15, 15-13 and 16-14.

In the other match, AAL won two from Valley Ready Mix by scores of 15-12 and 15-4 and then lost 15-5.

Willie Mays, San Francisco's center fielder, loses his cap and tumbles to the ground in the ninth inning of Monday's game to avoid colliding with Giant left fielder Matty Alou. Alou caught Yankee Tom Tresh's fly to left center. The Giants defeated the Yankees, 5-2, to even the series at three games apiece. (AP Wirephoto)

Boston Obtains Lovellette From St. Louis Hawks

Celtics Give No. 2 Draft Choice to Get 6-Foot-9 Center

BOSTON (AP)—Boston has bolstered its bid for a record fifth straight National Basketball Association championship by acquiring Clyde Lovellette for pivot insurance behind Bill Russell.

The Celtics closed the deal with the St. Louis Hawks late Monday night, surrendering next year's second round draft choice and an unannounced sum of money for the 6-foot-9 shotmaker.

"He's the guy we've been looking for," chirped an exhilarated coach Red Auerbach when he learned the deal had gone through.

It had been known for some time the Celtics' most pressing problem was to secure some relief for Russell, the 6-10 defensive genius who has to play almost every minute of every tough game.

Hold Off Waivers
Auerbach had requested that St. Louis owner Ben Kerner hold off placing the 33-year-old one-time University of Kansas All American on waivers until Boston owner Walter Brown could make an offer.

Lovellette, a nine year NBA veteran and one of the members of the league's exclusive 10,000-point club, had been slow rounding into shape for the Hawks in this pre-season period due to a foot injury.

Lovellette, a 235-pounder noted for his hook shot as a collegian, has developed a deadly outside one-hander in the pros and still can move into battle for the rebounds with anyone.

Once a shy, retiring type, Lovellette has developed into an extravert, one of the characters of the NBA.

day in preparation for the meeting with the San Francisco 49ers in Milwaukee.

Lombardi was asked if it was just a coincidence that the Packers have taken their worst physical poundings from the last place Vikings.

"I don't know about that," was Lombardi's answer.

Look at Movies
After looking at the movies of the Viking game Lombardi discovered his Packers had put on their greatest show of power since he took over as coach in 1959.

The Packers rolled up 218 yards on the ground and 297 passing, going over the 500-yard mark for the first time as they reached 513.

"It was a fine performance offensively," Lombardi said, "but we were playing far from the best team."

The 49ers will present a different situation. "They've suddenly come to life, winning three in a row after dropping their first two games. San Francisco was the last club to defeat Green Bay, taking a 22-21 decision on the West Coast last December. Since then the Packers have won 13 in a row, including exhibitions and the title game."

Knaus Bowls 649 Series in Couples Loop

Conny Knaus banged a 242 game and a 649 series to sweep honors in the Cigarette Couples League at Hahn's Lanes Monday evening. Conny also registered a 225 singleton.

The Winstons and Hit Parades are deadlocked for the top spot in the team standings with 7-2 records.

Other honor counts: John Koester, 590; and Larry Shebliski, 550.

Nitschke Terms Jim Taylor Greatest Fullback in History

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—"I thought I played an average game," said Taylor. "I was hit-ting quick and we had good blocking up there."

Taylor and the remainder of the healthy Packers had to be in the form they were because injuries sidelined three of their number, including halfback Paul Hornung who has piled up 62 points in quest of his fourth straight NFL scoring title.

"He's the greatest fullback in the history of football — better than Bronko Nagurski," Nitschke said Sunday after Taylor had rammed for 164 yards in the Packers' 48-21 victory over the Minnesota Vikings. The triumph was the fifth straight for the defending National Football League champions.

How did Taylor feel about his performance?

Seek 1968 Olympics

Los Angeles, Detroit In Running for Bid

CHICAGO (AP)—Los Angeles, according to rumors, had the inside track today as the American city to bid for the 1968 summer Olympics. Detroit, which in the past has been the official U.S. bidder three times, also was said to be in the running.

The board of directors of the U.S. Olympic Committee — numbering about 40—was to certify officially the city to make the bid today.

Representatives of Los Angeles, scene of the last summer Olympics in the U.S. in 1932, San Francisco, Detroit, Philadelphia and Portland, Ore., made their presentations for the summer games before the Olympic site committee Monday. All were impressive.

Lake Placid, N.Y., and Salt Lake City vied for American bids for the winter games of 1968, but there appeared little chance that the United States would be selected for them, since the 1968 Winter Olympics were at Squaw Valley, Calif.

The two U.S. cities selected as formal bidders will be submitted to the International Olympic Committee meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, Oct. 13, 1963. International forces bidding against them for the summer games will be Mexico City, Vienna, Lausanne and Buenos Aires.

Tokyo in 1964
They have been held at Berlin, London, Helsinki, Melbourne and Rome in the four-year interval period since being at Los Angeles in 1932, and will be in Tokyo in 1964.

This leads K. L. (Tug) Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, to believe that U.S. chances are ripe to land the 1968 summer games.

Also on the board's agenda is this hot item: "Discussion of effect upon Olympic program of the new federations."

A compromise between the NCAA-supported federations and the AAU over control of amateur athletics will be sought but there is little hope of a settlement. Both groups appear to be standing ground.

The AAU contends that it is recognized by the international body as the authorizing agent in the U.S. for athletic eligibility for the Olympics. The federations hope to gain this recognition by sheer power of the number of outstanding athletes competing in their meets.

A debate Wednesday on the matter to clear the air publicly looms between Col. Donald F. Hull, executive director of the AAU in the U.S. and Walter Byers, who holds the same position with the NCAA.

NBA Launches 17th Season With 2 Games

Lakers, Pistons Clash; Knicks Face Chicago '5'

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Association launches its 17th season tonight when the Western Division champion Los Angeles Lakers meet the Detroit Pistons and the New York Knicks tangle with the Chicago Zephyrs in Madison Square Garden.

By the end of the week, all teams in the league with the exemption of the transplanted San Francisco Warriors will have seen action. The Warriors, who used to operate in Philadelphia, open at home against Detroit next Tuesday.

The league has been experimenting with several rules changes during the exhibition season, but President Maurice Podoloff said none would be adopted because a poll of the teams failed to show enough favorable response.

Among the changes that were tied were increasing the foul line to 15 feet, four fouls in each half per player and the elimination of the three-point play before the imposition of penalty fouls.

Watch Hogue
The most intriguing player on the Garden court will be the Knicks' Paul Hogue, the 6-9, 250-pound center from the University of Cincinnati who outplayed Ohio State's fabled Jerry Lucas in the NCAA finals last season.

Hogue, Knick coach Eddie Donovan hopes, will be the answer to the club's long-standing problem of finding a big man for the backboards. The Knicks claim this is the reason they have been shut out of the playoffs for the past three years.

"With Hogue and Gene Conley (obtained from the Boston Celtics), we've got two fellows who can get us the ball off the backboards," said Donovan. "One big thing is that Hogue can concentrate on his rebounding."

"Now he doesn't have to do all the scoring the way he had to in college. We've got enough firepower to compensate for any lack of points by Hogue."

"We figure this also will permit us to run a lot more this year because we'll be getting the ball off the board more."

Hogue will get a tough assignment right off when he comes face-to-face with Walt Bellamy of the Zephyrs, rookie of the year last season. Bellamy was second in the league scoring race with 2,495 points behind Wilt Chamberlain.

Frank DeJong Slams 651 in Tavern League

Frank DeJong slammed a 268 game and a 651 series to top kugling in the Tavern League at Hahn's Lanes.

Gill's and Alma's (12-6) leads the league.

Other honor scores included Erv Hooyman, 246-650; Kat Kassube, 617; Mike Court, 604; Ken Uhlenbrauck, 234-601; Al Schink, 585; Harold Bowers, 574; Chuck Bayer, 569; McClintock, 569; M. Drier, 568; Al Gast, 567; Mel Ludwig, 561; Joe Pozolinski, 562; Duke Plamann, 522; G. Merkel, 551.

Roger Brandt slammed a 571 series to lead the Tap-a-Keg League at the Barn Tavern alleys. The only other honor score was a 550 series by Harvey Ganzel. Brandt's (11-4) leads the league by 2 1/2 games.

ing the record for most Series defeats—five.

Starter Today

Cepeda's outburst got him a place in the starting line-up for today's seventh game, although he has been riding the bench lately against right-handed pitching. Willie McCovey, who usually replaces Cepeda at first base, will be in left field in place of Harvey Kuenn, and Tom Haller will take over for catcher Ed Bailey. Haller always catches when Sanford pitches. The Yankees plan no line-up changes, although Ralph Houk's big man—Mickey Mantle—is hitting a mere .091 with two hits in 22 at-bats, and the club as a whole shows a sad .196 batting average.

"I hope we get our hitters going," said Houk. As for his pitchers, Houk said it would be Terry at the start and "the other 10 guys in the bullpen."

To hold the franchise he added the old bromide, "There is no tomorrow."

The weatherman promised fair weather with the temperature in the mid 70s for the seventh game. After three days of rain, the outfield was soggy but playable Monday.

Hand Mows Grass

Matty Schwab, Giants groundskeeper, personally took care of the job of hand-mowing the high outfield grass after the game. The field was too wet for a mower, three helicopters were brought in to help dry the outfield.

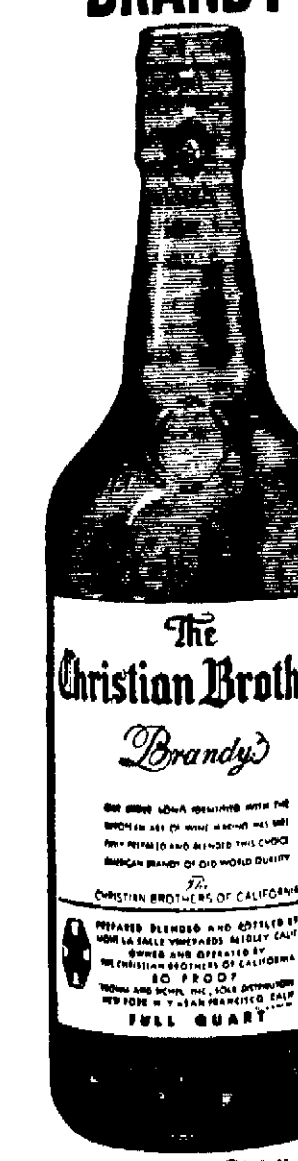

A bundle of cash hung on the line for the winner of the final game. The winners will split $362,578.32 and the losers will share $241,718.88. Nobody knew how many shares were voted but, on the basis of 30 for each, a winner would get about $12,000 and a loser about $8,000.

The Giants, of course, never had won since moving west from the Polo Grounds in 1958. This was their first pennant in San Francisco. A victory was expected to touch off a celebration that would rival Pittsburgh's spree of 1960.

and half and directed the Redmen to 21 points and a near tie (after Ripon's 28-0 halftime deficit). In all, Ankerson completed 31 of 68 passes last year.

The Vikes' just split quarterbacking chores with Bob Landis last year. Gary gained considerable prominence by kicking eight field goals—a new national small college record.

This year, just—a 6-0, 180-pound senior—has reached his peak as a field general. He has proved a dangerous runner and passer on the option play, besides doing the place-kicking and punting in four games. Just has scored two touchdowns, has tossed two TD passes, has kicked 10 extra points in 10 tries and has booted one field goal. Just's 25 points put him third on the MC scoring list.

Ankerson, the league's top scorer—with 42 points—has thrown four scoring passes and has run for five more. Jack has kicked nine PATs and one field goal.

Saturday's homecoming game at Lawrenceville featured four of the conference's top five scorers. Besides Ankerson and Just, they are Ripon's Dick Bennett and Lawrence's Fred Flom, who are tied for fourth place with 24 points apiece.

Ankerson and Just are proficient at a number of sports. Both play varsity basketball for their college teams. Ankerson also won the No. 3 singles crown in the 1962 MC tennis meet.

Just was a star high school pole vaulter, once winning the state title.

Cepeda Proves He's No Longer Tired and Weak

By Joe Reichler

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Orlando Cepeda, affectionately known as "the baby bull" in San Francisco, was "the big bust" through the first five games of the 1962 World Series.

And no one realized it more than Cepeda.

The slugging Giant first baseman, was discussing those fruitless days in the clubhouse Monday following his three-hit spurge that helped the Giants defeat the Yankees 5-2 to even the Series at three games apiece.

"I know better than others how terrible I was," he said in his native English. "I can do nothing right. I try everything but nothing helps."

Terrible Feeling

"I feel bad also because I think I let down the others. It's a terrible feeling when you know you are not doing your share."

"I know in first game, if I get a couple of hits we could win the game. But I strike out and hit into double play."

"I'm very tired. I play too much this year. Maybe 300 games altogether. I have to use lighter bat because I am not strong no longer."

It was no longer a "tired and weak" Cepeda who was the outstanding hitter of the sixth game. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound Puerto Rican bashed a double and two singles in his first three times at bat. He drove in two runs and scored another.

"That's true," he said. "I feel stronger. I think maybe it's because we don't play for four straight days. Anyway, I feel so good I go back to my heavy bat, which I did not use since Aug. 29 when I got five hits in five times at bat against Philadelphia."

Cepeda, who has been using a 33 ounce bat, changed to a 35-ounce Monday and he said, "It felt good."

Until then, he had failed to hit safely in 12 official times at bat. In his first time at bat Monday, he hit a sharp grounder right at Tony Kubek in the second inning, but the ball took a high bounce over the shortstop's head for a single.

"When that happened," Cepeda grinned, "I said to myself, 'maybe this is my day.'"

33 Ounce Bat

Cepeda needed no outside help in his next two times at bat. Orlando doubled to the fence in right center in the fourth to drive in Chuck Hiller and scored a moment later on Jimmy Davenport's single. His run-scoring single in the fifth was a bullet drive to center.

Market Gains In Slow Trade

Popular Volume Leaders Among Issues That Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged to the upside in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2 at 219.7 with industrials up 1.0, rails unchanged, and utilities off 3.

The gain was irregular, with a number of the popular volume leaders among "growth" stocks falling by the wayside.

Minor Gains

A string of minor plus signs among chemicals, rubbers, oils, electrical equipments, and motors provided much of the fuel for the advance.

Building materials, utilities, aerospace issues, and steels tended to the downside.

Tennessee Gas Transmission continued to trade at a fractional loss.

Howe Sound rose a fraction. Corning Glass gained another point.

Usual Leaders

The usual market leaders were down—Polaroid and Xerox off a couple of points apiece and IBM down 6. Korvette dropped a fraction.

Small fractional gains were posted for Big Three motors and American Motors. Studebaker was about unchanged.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were even.

Du Pont up about a point. Paced chemicals to a string of small advances.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.80 at 581.49.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed. U. S. government bonds were unchanged to a shade higher.

George A. Strickman

New President of Fairbanks Whitney

NEW YORK (AP)—George A. Strickman was named Monday as president of Fairbanks Whitney Corp., succeeding David Kari who was elevated to chairman of the holding company specializing in diversified manufacturing interests.

The announcement confirmed reports published last week. Three weeks ago a small group of stockholders organized to challenge former management of the firm which has lost money in recent years. There has been a wholesale reorganization of management in the last few months.

Strickman said he was convinced Fairbanks Whitney represents "an unusual opportunity for rehabilitation and future growth."

Captain of Rockne's Championship Team, John Law, Dies, 57

TERRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—John B. Law, captain of Notre Dame's championship 1929 Notre Dame football team, died Sunday night after a fall at his home.

Law, 57, fell on a stairway inside his home at 9 North Tappan, here early Sunday morning and was brought to Phelps Memorial Hospital. An operation was performed but he died at 7 p.m.

He had been a member of the State Commission of Correction for a little over a year. A Democrat, he was appointed to the post by Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Law was a lineman of the 1929 Notre Dame team that was undefeated in nine games against the nation's best college football teams. The team outscored its opposition 145-38 and won the 1929 Russian Trophy.

From 1924 to 1930 the national champions were awarded the Russian Trophy after selection by an informal tribunal. The trophy was retired in 1930 when Notre Dame won it a third time. That was the great Rockne's last year with Notre Dame.

Michigan's GOP Encouraged First Time in 15 Years

Democratic Gov. Paul Swainson Has Real Challenge From Romney

BY GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Republicans, with former auto industrialist George Romney as their candidate, have high hopes of capturing the governor's office from the Democrats Nov. 6 for the first time in 14 years.

Democratic leaders are pushing no panic buttons. They feel confident that Gov. John B. Swainson, a legless veteran of World War II with powerful AFL-CIO backing, will be on top when the votes are counted.

Most neutral observers call it a toss-up.

The campaign has developed into one of Michigan's hottest political battles. It involves such issues as leadership, tax reform, and the political activities of unions.

strong pitch for the Negro vote, but Romney appears to be handicapped by the fact that he holds a position in the Mormon Church equivalent to a bishop. Democrats contend that the church will not allow a Negro to hold a high office, and therefore regards Negroes as second-class citizens. Romney denies he holds any such views.

The GOP candidate says the issue of the campaign is leadership of the state and whether he or Swainson is better qualified.

Labor Leaders Hit

Romney also has launched a vigorous attack on some labor leaders, contending they have been dictatorial in refusing to permit him to speak to union members so that they can hear both sides and make up their own minds whom to support.

State chairmen of both parties agreed in a debate that most voters probably have already made up their minds which candidate they favor.

The winner may be decided on which party manages to convince its supporters they should bother to vote.

Sleeping-Stone

Democrats say the 35-year-old Romney is seeking the governor's job merely as a stepping-stone to the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

The former American Motors president denies he has his eye on the White House, but Republican leaders say they are proud to have Romney considered throughout the nation as an attractive candidate.

In his efforts to maintain the Democratic grip on the executive office, Swainson has had support from some powerful friends. President Kennedy already has made one swing through the state and will return once more before election day.

Other high-ranking democrats plugging for the reelection of the 37-year-old governor and Democratic congressman include Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, former President Harry S. Truman, and assorted cabinet members. Also helping out is the man Swainson succeeded, G. Mennen Williams, now Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs.

"Rescue Mission"

Romney, who is getting little outside help, describes the Michigan visits of Democratic big guns as a "federal rescue mission" which proves that Swainson "needs coattails to ride on."

Both candidates have campaigned strenuously, blazing a flagging campaign trail from the industrial environs of Detroit to the wild forestlands of the rugged Upper Peninsula.

But as the campaign enters its closing weeks, Swainson and Romney plan to concentrate their travels mainly in the metropolitan area of Detroit, where most of the votes are.

Activities of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society in one Detroit-area district have been seized upon by Democrats as an indication that Romney cannot control his own party.

Denunciation

The Republican nominee delivered a scathing denunciation of extremist groups at the GOP state convention, drew a standing ovation and says he considers the matter closed.

In his speech, Romney called for a state law that would permit political parties to oust any leaders whose real allegiance was to an "anti-American organization."

Both candidates have made a

DEAR CY:

I have an opportunity to buy a model agency. Some of the girls were "discovered" by the present owner and are very loyal to the agency. It would be safe to guess they would stay with the company after a change in ownership. I would buy the business and good will, only if it showed chances for a big increase in volume. One way I see more jobs for the models is by going after convention and trade-show modelling business. Presently the agency is working mostly with photographers, illustrators, and retail stores for their fashion shows. Do you see where I could buy the business and pay it off fast by going after trade-show jobs?

HUGO W.

DEAR HUGO:

These are shifting times! One of the shifts taking place is from girlie appeals to sales appeal . . . at trade shows. With manufacturers trying to make each promotional dollar do the work of a dozen, they'll spend more for technical demonstrations and displays. Instead of scantily clad models, conventioners can expect to see more hard boiled selling.

CY

DEAR CY:

My husband presently works in a factory and doesn't like what he is doing as his life's occupation. As he is very interested in hunting and fishing, he seeks some position in wildlife work, but doesn't know how to go about it. On a trip to the West Coast, we checked with the state of Oregon and the state of Washington for such a position. He was turned down, and we don't know why. Could it be his lack of college education?

EARN-MONEY-AT-HOME SWINDLERS NETTING $500 MILLION ANNUALLY

DEAR CY:

Honesty is the best policy, and it's time I tried a little of it.

I got fired from my job for taking a few things home from work with me. Others did the same, but they didn't get caught. So here I am at home . . . a man without a job. With my record, I can't seem to get relocated, and am turning to ways to make money at home. What do you think of the various schemes offered in magazine ads for making money at home? Do they actually result in a person making much money? Do the promoters make money?

HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS:

Let's tune in on the Better Business Bureau. Here's what they say in their booklet, "Facts You Should Know about Earn-Money-at-Home Schemes": "There are hundreds of these earn-money-at-

Xavier Freshmen to Attend Rehearsals of Lawrence Symphony

Students in the freshman music appreciation classes of Xavier High School girls' department are attending weekly rehearsals of the Lawrence College symphony orchestra on five successive Tuesday evenings, beginning today.

Attendance at the rehearsals will culminate a month's study of the instruments of the symphony orchestra. The students will be transported by bus and chaperoned by the teacher, Mrs. Kenneth Mueller, and one or two of the sisters. Mrs. Mueller also has organized a freshman girls' chorus, which rehearses on Tuesday and Friday after school. The group has 80 members. Patricia Thielman has been elected music librarian and Sanda Kluba, secretary. In addition to this new group, Xavier has a mixed chorus and junior and senior madrigal groups.

WHO NEEDS 160 MPH?

or Why Studebaker Broke 29 Speed Records*

To be truthful, just three types of people need record-breaking speeds...the police, racing drivers and automotive test engineers. But you and your family do have a stake in the endurance such speeds require!

Even at sixty miles an hour, a car's wheels and their bearings make 770 revolutions a minute; each of the pistons goes up and down more than 2300 times a minute; the rear axle gears mesh 33,000 times! So think of the punishment a car must take at one hundred and sixty!

Said Andy Granatelli, test driver of our 160-plus Avanti: "Can you imagine holding a car wide open in first gear for fifty miles? Well this would be easy compared to what the Avanti had to do to set 29 records!"

Here's what this remarkable endurance means to you: The major chassis and engine components of the Avanti are common to or optional on all other cars from Studebaker in '63, the Cruiser, the Hawk, the Larks.

For example, if all parts of the Lark you buy can stand up to this kind of super-strain, they'll take your hour-after-hour turnpike driving in stride for years. If our new and exclusive heat-dissipating disc brakes will stop this car in a straight line, in a fraction of the distance of conventional brakes—then you and your family are bound to be safer.

To be sure, in making these tests the Avanti (a certified stock car) did set 29 speed records in twelve hours (with speeds in excess of 170 mph), and we're proud of it.

But we are even prouder that these records proved without doubt the superior reliability of our car. We believe this is a major contribution to highway safety... and to yours! Why not take a look at the cars from Studebaker this year—you may save a lot more than just money!

Be sure to ask your dealer about the new 24-month/24,000 mile Warranty on all cars from Studebaker!

Michigan's GOP Encouraged First Time in 15 Years

Democratic Gov. Paul Swainson Has Real Challenge From Romney

BY GENE SCHROEDER
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Republicans, with former auto industrialist George Romney as their candidate, have high hopes of capturing the governor's office from the Democrats Nov. 6 for the first time in 14 years. Democratic leaders are pushing no panic buttons. They feel confident that Gov. John B. Swainson, a legless veteran of World War II with powerful AFL-CIO backing, will be on top when the votes are counted. Most neutral observers call it a toss-up. The campaign has developed into one of Michigan's hottest political battles. It involves such issues as leadership, tax reform, and the political activities of unions.

Stepping-Stone
Democrats say the 55-year-old Romney is seeking the governor's job merely as a stepping-stone to the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

The former American Motors president denies he has his eye on the White House, but Republican leaders say they are proud to have Romney considered throughout the nation as an attractive candidate.

In his efforts to maintain the Democratic grip on the executive office, Swainson has had support from some powerful friends. President Kennedy already has made one swing through the state and will return once more before election day.

Other high-ranking democrats, plugging for the reelection of the 37-year-old governor and Democratic congressmen include Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, former President Harry S. Truman, and assorted cabinet members. Also helping out is the man Swainson succeeded, G. Mennen Williams, now Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs.

"Rescue Mission"
Romney, who is getting little outside help, describes the Michigan visits of Democratic big guns as a "federal rescue mission" which proves that Swainson "needs coalitions to ride on."

Both candidates have campaigned strenuously, blazing a fatiguing campaign trail from the industrial environs of Detroit to the wild forestlands of the rugged Upper Peninsula.

But as the campaign enters its closing weeks, Swainson and Romney plan to concentrate their travels mainly in the metropolitan area of Detroit, where most of the votes are.

Activities of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society in one Detroit-area district have been seized upon by Democrats as an indication that Romney cannot control his own party.

Denunciation
The Republican nominee delivered a scathing denunciation of extremist groups at the GOP state convention, drew a standing ovation and says he considers the matter closed.

In his speech, Romney called for a state law that would permit political parties to oust any leaders whose real allegiance was to an "anti-American organization."

Both candidates have made a strong pitch for the Negro vote, but Romney appears to be handicapped by the fact that he holds a position in the Mormon Church as their candidate. Democrats contend that the church will not allow a Negro to hold a high office, and therefore regards Negroes as second-class citizens. Romney denies he holds any such views.

The GOP candidate says the issue of the campaign is leadership of the state and whether he or Swainson is better qualified.

Labor Leaders Hit
Romney also has launched a vigorous attack on some labor leaders contending they have been dictatorial in refusing to permit him to speak to union members so that they can hear both sides and make up their own minds whom to support.

State chairmen of both parties agreed in a debate that most voters probably have already made up their minds which candidate they favor.

The winner may be decided on which party manages to convince its supporters they should bother to vote.

EARN-MONEY-AT-HOME SWINDLERS NETTING $500 MILLION ANNUALLY

DEAR HELPLESS:
Let's tune in on the Better Business Bureau. Here's what they say in their booklet, "Facts You Should Know about Earn-Money-at-Home Schemes": "There are hundreds of these earn-money-at-home schemes. It is estimated they take over a half billion dollars annually from several million people who are swindled out of amounts ranging from $1 to over $1,000. Victims end by losing money, not earning it." For booklet, send 10c to B.B.B., Chrysler Bldg., New York City.

Don't be a swindler! Follow the "best policy"... outside the home.

DEAR CY:

I have an opportunity to buy a model agency. Some of the girls were "discovered" by the present owner and are very loyal to the agency. It would be safe to guess they would stay with the company after a change in ownership. I would buy the business and good will, only if it showed chances for a big increase in volume. One way I see more jobs for the models is by going after convention and trade-show modelling business. Presently the agency is working mostly with photographers, illustrators, and retail stores for their fashion shows. Do you see where I could buy the business and pay it off fast by going after trade-show jobs?

HUGO W.

DEAR HUGO:
These are shifting times! One of the shifts taking place is from girlie appeals to sales appeal... at trade shows. With manufacturers trying to make each promotional dollar do the work of a dozen, they'll spend more for technical demonstrations and displays. Instead of scantily clad models, conventioners can expect to see more hard boiled selling.

DEAR CY:

My husband presently works in a factory and doesn't like what he is doing as his life's occupation. As he is very interested in hunting and fishing, he seeks some position in wildlife work, but doesn't know how to go about it. On a trip to the West Coast, we checked with the state of Oregon and the state of Washington for such a position. He was turned down, and we don't know why. Could it be his lack of college education?
